BCGEU Storms Out of Pay Talks

By MIKE HUGHES
Times Staff

B.C. government employees' negotiators stormed out of a meeting with government representatives Monday after the union's request for a five-per-cent inflation wage increase was rejected.

John Fryer, general secretary of the 43,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union, said today he was "shocked and angry" at the government's attitude.

He said the government's position is that because of the drop in the sales tax from five to four per cent and the $100-increase in the provincial homeowner grant, there is no justification for wage adjustments retroactive to April 1.

Fryer said the union was told as a result of these moves the cost of living in B.C. will be going down.

"That will certainly come as news to our members and all working people in B.C.

"Statistics Canada has reported a 1.1-per-cent increase in the cost of living for March with an annual increase of 13 per cent."

The meeting, which lasted 45 minutes, was called because of a provision in the current contract which says once the inflation rate hits a certain point there must be a meeting between the two parties to review the salary levels and decide whether they should be increased.

The contract states that the wage talks must take place once the rate of inflation for the six-month period from Oct. 1, 1978 to March 31 rises above four per cent.

The union estimates living costs have gone up 5.1 per cent in that period.

The current contract expires July 31 and negotiations for a master agreement covering 38,000 government employees are expected to begin about the middle of June.

Fryer said today things don't look good.

"If this is an example of the government's attitude at the bargaining table it does not bode well for ourn hopes that we will be able to reach a peaceful settlement."

Fryer was angered because, he said, the wage review clause was put into the contract at the 11th hour during 1977 contract talks to avoid a strike by liquor store employees.

He said nine hours before the strike was scheduled to begin government negotiators got in touch with Premier Bill Bennett, who was in Brussels at the time, and received approval for putting the clause in the contract.

"I am shocked and angry as I am sure our membership will be at the appalling lack of good faith on the part of government negotiators."

Fryer said government employees are not second-class citizens and their salaries have been seriously eroded over the past two years.

Government employees wages have increased 9.7 per cent over the last two years while prices have increased by 15.3 per cent over the same period, Fryer said.

Tories Ahead: CBC

TORONTO (CP) — A poll conducted for CBC television prior to Sunday's debate between the leaders shows the Progressive Conservatives have a greater percentage of the decided vote for the May 22 general election than the Liberals in every region of Canada except Quebec.

The poll, conducted by the social science and journalism departments at Carleton University in Ottawa, shows 40.9 per cent of decided voters said they would vote Conservative; 39.6 per cent said they would vote Liberal; 14.5 per cent said they would vote NDP; 4.4 per cent said they would vote Social Credit and 0.6 per cent said they would for other parties.

However, despite his party's over-all standing, Pierre Trudeau remains the overwhelming choice as the leader seen to be most competent and most attractive in personality, the survey shows.

Telephone interviews were conducted with 2,332 persons between April 30 and May 10.

Fifteen per cent of those interviewed said they intended to vote but were either undecided or would not say which party they would vote for. Seventeen per cent said they would not vote or had not decided whether to vote.

9.2% City Jobless Rate Tops Canada Average

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in British Columbia and particularly in Victoria remained above the national average in April, Statistics Canada reported today.

The B.C. unemployment rate last month rose to 8.2 per cent from 8 per cent while the Victoria jobless rate has hit 9.2 per cent.

The number of Canadians looking for jobs dropped to 943,000 during April from 976,000 in March.

However, the seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate remained at 7.9 per cent, StatsCan said.

The seasonally-adjusted rate shows the proportion of the labor force actively seeking work, adjusted to compensate for seasonal factors such as school openings and closings, annual freeze-up and the Christmas rush.

During the month, the number of would-be workers who found jobs was 48,000, bringing the total number of working Canadians to slighty more than 10 million.

The seasonally-adjusted rate of 7.9 per cent, which has remained unchanged since February, is the lowest since July, 1977.

However, it compares unfavorably with latest unemployment rates for other major industrial nations. In the United States, first quarter unemployment was 5.8 per cent. Most recent figures from France show 6.1 percent unemployment in February, Japan had 1.9 per cent during the same month, West Germany had 3.9 per cent in March and Britain reported an April rate of 5.5 per cent.

These figures, which the new government will face after the May 22 election compare with an unemployment rate of 5.1 per cent on voting day in 1974.

The unemployment rate was highest among those in the 15-to-19 age bracket. Males in this group registered 18.6-per-cent unemployment and females 17.6 per cent.

Where There's a Will There's One Last Shot

MIAMI (AP) — For $125, Miami residents now can "come back from the dead" — and in living color — to cut an undesirable relative out of a will or to leave some last endearing thoughts to loved ones.

Seven people so far have taken advantage of lawyer Murray Meyerson's offer to videotape the making and signing of their wills.

"It's a wonderful way for your kids to see you alive, talking to them after you have died," said Ferdinana Ierna, who videotaped his message from the great beyond last week.

Meyerson said the idea came to him during the controversy over whether billionaire Howard Hughes left a valid will.

"There were so many problems in the Hughes will," Meyerson said. "It seemed incredible to me that a man who had been involved with movies did not film his last will and testament."

Meyerson says the video version doesn't substitute for a written will required by state law, but is "a way to relay personal and confidential information through a dramatic, convincing medium."

"Just think of the pleasure it would give a wealthy man to cut off his free-spending brother," he says, "then explain it all in living color."

Thatcher Puts Brakes On Socialism Slide

LONDON (AP) — The new Conservative government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Parliament today it will boost military spending, cut income taxes and curb labor unions.

In line with Tory pledges to stop Britain's slide deeper into socialism, the government also will de-nationalize some industries and spur private enterprise.

The program was contained in the speech from the throne ready by the Queen at the opening of Parliament.

The speech held closely to the platform that helped the Conservatives win a 43-seat majority in the 635-seat Parliament in the May 3 general election. The new session is expected to last about 18 months of the government's five-year term.

On economic policy, the speech said the Conservatives "will give priority to controlling inflation through the pursuit of firm monetary and fiscal policies."

"By reducing the burden of direct taxation and restricting the claims of the public sector on the nation's resources, they will start to restore incentives, encourage efficiency and create a climate in which commerce and industry can flourish."

The speech announced a new Industry Act curtailing government subsidies to ailing industries, a move to sell back into private hands the nationalized aeronautic and shipbuilding industries,

A prime Tory election pledge was to stop organized labor from abusing its power, which the Conservatives said had put labor militants above the law. They promised to prevent strikers from harming the business of companies not involved in disputes, to do away with the required closed shop and to require secret ballots in union strike votes.

The speech said Mrs. Thatcher's government "intends to achieve a fair balance between the rights and duties of the trade union movement."

"Legislation will be brought before you to amend the law on picketing and the closed shop, and to provide for financial aid for postal ballots."

Gold Hits Record

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold hit an all-time high of $255.50 U.S. an ounce here today as the United States dollar firmed in Europe after dropping in Tokyo.

The gold record was set by London's five major bullion market dealers, surpassing the record of $254 an ounce, the fixing price set for the morning trading session of Feb. 8. Gold closed here Monday at $251.75.

N-Waste Bursts On Fire

BEATTY, Nev. (UPI) — Eighteen people, including 12 volunteer firefighters, were exposed to small amounts of radiation from a tractor-trailer loaded with radioactive waste that exploded and caught fire at a desert dumping ground 110 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The unidentified driver of the shipment, sent from a southern California plant to Nuclear Energy Co.'s nuclear waste dump, awakened to find smoke coming from his cargo in the predawn hours Monday.

Unhooking his truck, he roared through a chain at the dump entrance and drove 10 miles to Beatty to report the fire, Beatty Fire Chief Bill Sullivan said. The driver was uninjured.

Russ Moore, spokesman for Nuclear Energy Co., said no off-site contamination occurred, but Gov. Robert List expressed concern that smoke from the fire may have carried Uranium 238, which he said ingested into the lungs is "extremely harmful."

A spokesman for the Aerojet Ordnance Co. which shipped the waste, said the cans of low-level radioactive waste contained grinding sludge, which consisted of depleted uranium metal oxides and grinding wheel particles from the company's Heavy Metals Division plant in Los Angeles.

Screws Tighten on Diesel

Times News Services

The U.S. gasoline crisis is now spilling over to include other, related fuels.

With bus lines, truckers and railroads all claiming a high priority on available diesel fuel supplies, the lowest priority falls to the individual drivers who bought diesel-powered cars to avoid shortages of gasoline.

And facing diesel-fuel and home-heating-oil shortages that could prove worse than the current gasoline crisis, the U.S. Department of Energy's Economic Regulatory Administration is considering reimposing federal controls over use of these fuels.

The agency has already taken the first step toward federal allocation of the two essentially identical fuels by issuing an emergency order to assure that farmers have enough diesel fuel for spring planting.

The ERA issued the emergency order after the U.S. Department of Agriculture warned that shortages of diesel fuel had delayed planting so long that there was a danger food production would fall. The order requires that suppliers meet all fuel need of farmers.

Now mass transit systems are demanding similar treatment, claiming at least 40 bus lines will have to cut back service unless they can get more diesel fuel.

With railroads and long-haul truckers preparing to make their own pleas for special consideration, the DOE regulators are considering reinstating federal fuel-allocation controls that were ended in 1976.

Diesel fuel and home heating oil are chemically the same product.
Both are part of a family of fuels known in the oil industry as middle distillates.

After the first three months of 1979, middle distillate supplies were 16.8 per cent lower than a year earlier, according to a spokesman for the American Petroleum Institute.

Most diesel fuel users now are getting about 80 per cent of their normal fuel allocation from suppliers. Under the DOE emergency order, agricultural users — including commercial fishermen — are to get 100 per cent of their needs until July 31.

Americans writhing under the thumbscrew of growing fuel shortages and oil prices also got a 60-cent-a-barrel twist of the lever Monday from two of the world's major producers, Iran and Venzuela.

Saanich Thaws Freeze on Hiring

Saanich council has authorized the creation of a new senior post in the engineering department despite a recently-imposed freeze on hiring.

The hiring of a land development engineer was approved by council at an in camera session.

While Mayor Mel Couvelier noted the move contradicts council's decision to freeze staff levels, he defended the action by saying the municipality will be better able to control development costs in future.

The person appointed will supervise installation of services to new developments to ensure taxpayers are not footing the bill.

He will have specific responsibility preparing development cost charges bylaws, a fairly recent legislative tool allowing municipalities to bill developers in advance for the cost of off-site services.

ening of unemployment for this group. Its rate jumped by half a percentage point during April, from 17.7 per cent the previous month.

In the 20-to-24 age group, unemployment was also considerably above the national average at 11.6 per cent.

Newfoundland, which habitually has the highest unemployment rate, showed a slight improvement during April, with a drop to 15.7 per cent from the previous month's 17.6 per cent.

Other provinces which showed improvement were Nova Scotia where unemployment fell to 10.8 per cent from its March rate of 11 per cent, and Quebec where unemployment dropped to 10.2 per cent from 10.6 per cent in March.

In Ontario, the rate remained unchanged at 6.7 per cent. Saskatchewan, with 4.2 per cent, and New Brunswick with 12.1 per cent, also reported no change.

The remaining provinces faced worsening unemployment: Prince Edward Island's rate, for example, climbed to 12.4 per cent from 12.2 per cent in March; Manitoba registered a 1.1 per cent jump, bringing its rate to 6.3 per cent and Alberta reported 4.3 per cent compared with the previous month's 3.7 per cent.

The Metro Toronto area, considered by many a key to the May 22 election, had an unemployment rate well below the national average at 5.9 per cent. This was an improvement from its March showing of 6.2 per cent.

The federal statistics showed that 63.3 per cent of the population was in the labor force during April. This was unchanged from March.

The agency said said 844,000 of 943,000 jobless were actively looking for work, the remaining 99,000 did not seek jobs, some because they were on temporary layoff, others because they expected to have a job in the next month.

Among major cities unemployment rates were: St. John's, Nfld., 13.6 per cent; Halifax 8.9 per cent; Saint John, N.B., 10.5 per cent; Chicoutimi, Que., 11.1 per cent; Quebec 9.9 per cent; Montreal 9.1 per cent; Ottawa-Hull 9.1 per cent; Sudbury, Ont., 13.8 per cent; Hamilton 5.9 per cent; St. Catharines, Ont., 7.9 per cent; London, Ont., 5.7 per cent; Windsor, Ont., 6.7 per cent; Kitchener-Waterloo, Ont., 7.0 per cent; Winnipeg 6.8 per cent; Regina 6.5 per cent; Saskatoon 5.3 per cent; Calgary 4.9 per cent; Edmonton 4.6 per cent; Vancouver 8.0 per cent.

Penthouse Wins Liquor Bid

After nearly 2½ years battling the courts and the liquor licensing branch, Vancouver's controversial Penthouse cabaret will soon re-open with liquor.

The Seymour Street club — branded as a hangout for hookers — fought three battles in the courts as far as the Supreme Court of Canada and had two lengthy skirmishes with the licensing branch before the Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Jim Nielsen stepped in and agreed to reissue its cabaret licence.

In accepting the Penthouse appeal, Nielsen said the nightclub scene in Vancouver has changed considerably since the Penthouse first applied to have its licence back.

The club was closed in January, 1976, and the owners and operators were subsequently found guilty of using the facility as the centre of a prostitution ring.

But an appeal overturned that lower court ruling, and finally the Appeal Court of the Supreme Court of Canada upheld the appeal decision.

Afer exoneration in the courts, the Penthouse re-applied for its liquor licence.

Licensing branch general manager Vic Woodland refused the application, saying there were enough cabaret seats in Vancouver to serve the needs of the public.

But the Penthouse lawyers went back to work and drew up a two-volume report to show that the actual number of cabaret seats was different from the figures used by the licensing branch.

Nielsen said today that the report was thorough and when checked by the branch, accurate as well.

A number of cabarets had closed or converted to restaurants or lounges since the first licence application, he said.

The number of seats today has dropped down to what Woodland said would be an acceptable level for issuing another licence, the minister said.

Based on those figures, Nielsen said he granted the new licence.

Asked if he as minister was overruling a decision by one of his top civil servants, Nielsen said his decision has nothing to do with Woodland's.

"An appeal was heard, and a decision made," the minister said. "Vic couldn't hear the appeal because he heard the first application."

The liquor licensing act contains provisions for any outlet to appeal directly to the minister a decision made by the licencing branch.

There are 5,000 licensed premises in the province, Nielsen said. With so many seats it's difficult to keep track of all the changes.

He said the report prepared by the Penthouse lawyers satisfied him there is room for the Penthouse cabaret.

Crown Land: Not Drastic

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The B.C. government's program to sell Crown land will be merely a streamlining of existing procedures for alienating such land, Larry Bell, deputy lands minister, said Monday.

Bell told delegates to the B.C. Real Estate Association's annual convention that details of the program should be worked out in the next five months.

He said the program will simplify legal and administrative procedures which now create frustration for both lands ministry administrators and the 5,000 people who annually apply for Crown land for individual use and for use by companies.

Under the program, persons wishing to buy Crown land will still be responsible for identifying the land they wish to purchase, but present procedures for releasing the land, which Bell said are archaic, will be altered.

He said the three-to-five acre lots will be priced at market value with a possible 10-per-cent discount for longtime B.C. residents or persons wanting to build their first home.

Bell said the government will work closely with regional districts and municipalities to ensure the land use will conform to existing zoning.

Ex-Island MP Dies at 72

COURTENAY (CP) — A former Comox-Alberni Tory MP when John Diefenbaker was prime minister has died at the age of 72.

Henry McQuillan was born and raised in the Comox Valley and served as its MP from 1958 to 1962.

McQuillan also was a director in the Comox-Strathcona regional district from 1972 to 1975, when he was defeated.

HOW TO GET FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS AND A LITTLE HOUSEWARMING GIFT FROM A COMPLETE STRANGER.

It sounds ridiculous, doesn't it?

It all started with a little innocent house-hunting one weekend.

And all of a sudden, you're on the verge of making the biggest purchase decision of your life, up to now.

If it's your first home, you're probably going to need more money than you've ever seen, let alone thought of borrowing.

Or, if you're trading your present home for a bigger one, you're probably slightly amazed at what it costs to move up a few notches in the housing market these days.

Even if you're simply renovating, or putting an addition onto your present home, the amount of cash you need is still enough to make you swallow hard!

Anyhow, to swing your deal, you need a mortgage. For twenty, forty, sixty, who knows how many thousands of dollars.

But since you read this ad, you pop some small change into a phone and call the mortgage people at Royal Trust.

The voice on the other end listens to the details of the deal. Asks a few questions. Doesn't even sound surprised when you mention that shocking amount of money you need. Just come in and sign the papers.

And the same voice will probably call you back, generally within a day or so, and tell you all's well. The money's yours.

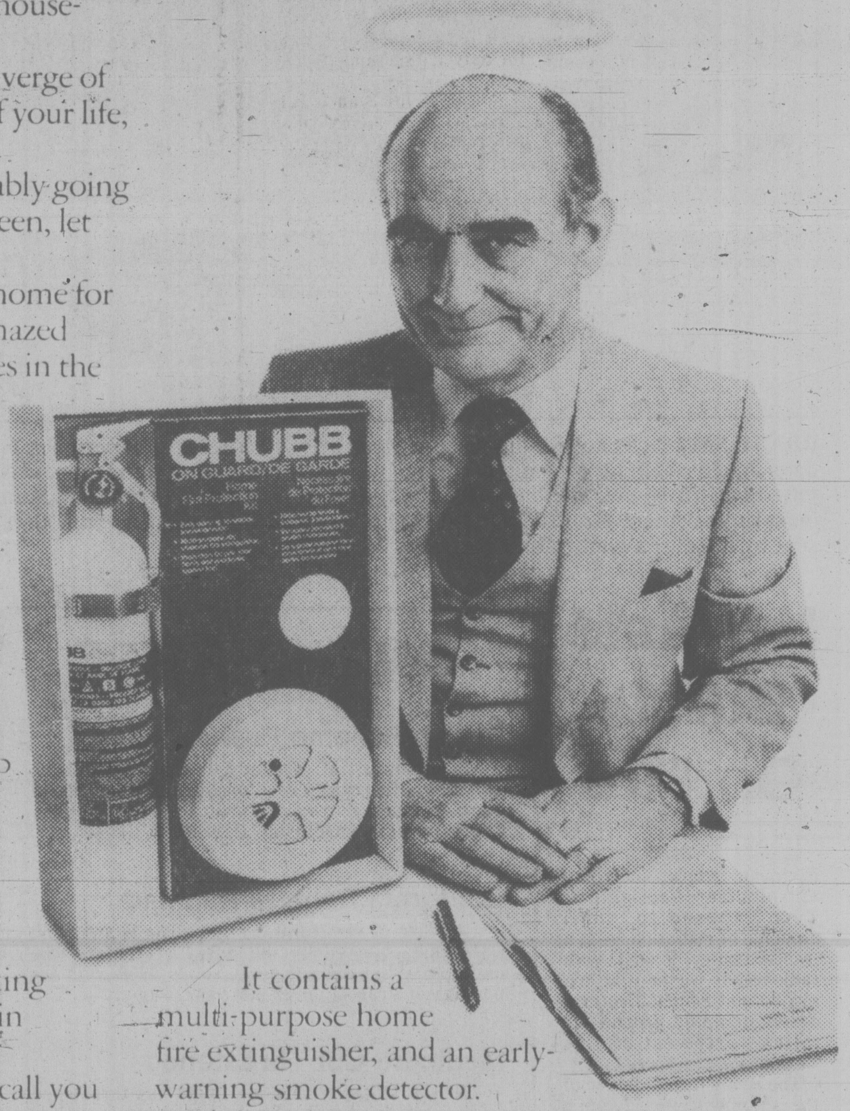
You'll be delighted.

And interestingly enough, the voice on the other end of the line will sound delighted, too!

About that little housewarming gift.

As a small extra incentive to talk to Royal Trust about mortgages this spring, we've arranged a special housewarming gift for each new mortgage customer.

Once your mortgage is advanced, the people at your Royal Trust office (by now, no longer strangers!) would like you to have a Chubb Home Fire Protection Kit.



It contains a multi-purpose home fire extinguisher, and an early-warning smoke detector.

And though we hope you'll never have to use either, we're sure you'll sleep easier knowing they're on hand if you need them.

But all that comes later.

Right now, whether a mortgage is in your future or you're just thinking about shopping for a new home, why not break the ice.

Just call, or drop in to your nearest Royal Trust office and ask to speak to the mortgage expert.

Or have a chat with a Royal Trust real estate sales representative.

Marriages Made by Moon

NEW YORK (AP) — Some marriages, they say, are made in heaven. For 1,410 members of the Unification Church, they are made by their leader — Korean evangelist Sun Myung Moon.

So it was that George Whitfield, a 28-year-old black man from Mississippi and Ellen Vogel, a 24-year-old Jewish girl from Yonkers, N.Y., became engaged, even though they knew each other only casually.

They were one of 704 couples, of varied racial and national backgrounds, who were paired off at a mass engagement ceremony here "by the inspiration of Rev. Sun Myung Moon," whom Whitfield describes as "the representative of God."

They will be married at a worldwide mass wedding ceremony to be performed some time in 1981 under Moon's direction. Sources close to the church said Monday that Madison Square Garden is being considered as the site for the mass wedding of as many as 8,000 couples.

Whitfield and Ms. Vogel said they had each made the decision, through prayer, to marry outside their race before coming to the ceremony. They both then came to seek Moon's help.

At the Mother's Day ceremony in the spacious ballroom of the former New Yorker hotel — now owned by Moon's sect — Whitfield sat with the men on one side of the room and Ellen sat on the other, waiting to be called forward by their leader.

"He (Moon) asked me if I wanted to marry a white sister," Whitfield said. "Then he asked if I wanted a tall one or a short one."

Hired Killer Cited At Trial

LONDON (AP) — The Liberal party's former deputy treasurer, David Holmes, said he hired a professional killer he met in a bar to murder Jeremy Thorpe's alleged homosexual lover, the prosecution's star witness says.

Peter Bessell, a former British member of Parliament who lives in Oceanside, Calif., testified Monday that Holmes visited him in Oceanside in 1976 and told him of a plot to kill former model Norman Scott. The plot did not work and Scott's dog was killed instead.

Bessell said Holmes told him he met Andrew Newton, a former airline pilot, in a Chelsea tavern and paid him £5,000 ($12,000) to kill Scott in 1975, and that Thorpe, then leader of the Liberal party, was aware Newton had been hired.

Italy Terror Soars

ROME (UPI) — The first contingent of a 10,000-man military force fanned out on the edge of Rome today to guard public installations against continuing terrorist violence.

But fire and bombing attacks continued and two policemen were blinded by terrorists.

The 800 troopers from the 8th Territorial Military Command took up positions outside the city limits at power and electronic stations, energy plants and television repeater stations.

At the moment the troops are not to be used inside Rome itself, but will be called in during the general election June 3 and 4 to guard polling stations.

Extreme leftists, notably the Red Brigades, have denounced the elections as "a fraud."

A dozen terrorists attacked a Rome police garage today, beating up and binding two officers, stealing their sidearms and several hundred general election forms, and burning three police vehicles.

IF: There is a Persian rug on the floor, what does that tell you about its owner? Probably that he is well off. Also, he'll be a secure person because a Persian rug is a good saleable item in these inflation ridden times. It is easier to sell expensive oriental carpets today in a sluggish economy than it was in the 1950s and 60s although the average price of an authentic Oriental carpet has greatly increased in recent years. An Oriental rug is an excellent hedge against inflation because its value increases constantly. The reason for this is the increased wealth and industrialization of Mid-East countries. Weavers and master artists are leaving their traditional work and are entering industrial employment. In addition the Shah of Iran had introduced compulsory education thereby effectively eliminating the employment of children in rug weaving says:

Major Health Plan Pushed For U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, having unveiled his own $211 billion plan for national health insurance, wants President Carter to join him in the battle to win its enactment.

For now, however, Carter isn't biting.

Kennedy, speaking Monday to a large audience — and television cameras — in the ornate Senate Caucus Room, made a direct reference to the administration when he tore into "those who believe that comprehensive national health insurance, however desirable, is inconsistent with today's budgetary politics."

The administration is backing a step-by-step approach — the first dealing with catastrophic coverage and system reform. Kennedy is backing one, big bill with all phases enacted at once.

Kennedy, who has been at odds with the president over health care for some time, warned Carter not to abandon principle in his fight to control federal spending and asked him "to join with us to make quality health care a right for all our people."

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said he welcomed Kennedy's bill, looked forward to working with him, and shared the belief that the country needs comprehensive national health insurance.

That was as far as Califano was prepared to go, however. He said the White House is sticking to its different approach as the only one Congress will accept. He said Carter believes in that course because it will not create problems in the health care system or in the economy.

But Kennedy said one more day's delay may be too much. His bill, he said, "represents the best chance to avoid national bankruptcy and to bring spiralling health costs under control."

Kennedy's health plan would begin to take effect in 1983. Aides said the bill would cost $28.6 billion more than current federal spending on health care, meaning the actual price tag is $211 billion.

By 1987, however, Kennedy said it would be cheaper to have his plan than to go along with the present system.

A Happy Hangover For Elton John

Rock singer Elton John swigged champagne from the bottle after the professional soccer team he helps manage won a home game and a boost up the league ladder. John is chairman of the board of Watford Football Club in Hertfordshire, 28 kilometres northwest of London. Watford Monday won its second promotion in two years to enter the Second Division of the professional English soccer league. "I can't really believe that we are in the Second Division and I am not going to think any further than waking up in the morning with a hangover," said John.

The man believed to be the oldest person in the United States has returned to his convalescent home in Bartow, Fla., after spending a week in a Lakeland hospital for tests. Ruth Aiple, administrator of the Bartow Convalescent Centre, said after the return Monday of 136-year-old Charlie Smith that he has no serious medical problems. "We're already planning his birthday party for July 4," she added.

Score one for Bianca Jagger who won a round Monday in her divorce battle with her rock star husband. Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Harry Shafer ruled California has jurisdiction in the case — pending findings of a London court. Mick Jagger has been fighting for the London forum.

In San Francisco, Sirhan Sirhan, the murderer of former-U.S. senator Robert Kennedy, appealed Monday for permission to seek an early parole. Sirhan, whose death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in 1972, asked the California Appeal Court to bring forward the date on which he can seek his release, now set at March 1, 1985. In support of his plea, Sirhan pointed to his efforts toward social and psychological rehabilitation during his 10-year stay in California's Soledad Jail.

And finally, professional gambler Jimmy Chagra, under indictement on U.S. federal drug conspiracy charges, had a change of luck this weekend and won what he says is the largest blackjack hand ever in a legitimate casino. And, he says his total weekend of betting earned him more than $500,000. Chagra said he built up a bank role of $390,000 by shooting craps at a Las Vegas casino then, impulsively, he put $100,000 on a blackjack hand. He was dealt cards totalling 12, then asked for one more and got a nine to make 21 — which paid him even money. Chagra said he got up the next morning and made basketball bets which earned him $200,000 more.

Trade and foreign affairs

This is the second in a series of editorials on the issues of the federal election campaign.

Trade and foreign affairs rarely intrude on the domestic bliss of a federal election campaign, and only then as carefully tailored messages for a particular constituency of Canadian voters. There are a number of reasons which explain this situation.

Canada is probably unique in the world in its favored position. It enjoys a high standard of living and well-developed economy on an enormous land mass, remote from the crises of realpolitik that plague Europe. We have only a token armed force and depend for shelter on our benevolent neighbor to the south with its nuclear umbrella and 2.5 million men under arms.

Unlike Europe or many African and Asian nations, Canada is secure from threat of invasion. It is taken for granted by most Canadians, who can barely muster an interest in Quebec, let alone foreign countries.

Politicians who take an interest in matters foreign find themselves distanced from their countrymen, even from their fellow MPs. Debates on Canadian foreign policy are rare these days in the House of Commons.

Canada still attempts to play an international role — we have peacekeeping troops under UN aegis in the Middle East and lately Canada has been involved in negotiations for a peaceful settlement in Namibia — but foreign policy is almost a non-issue in this election. This is perhaps best illustrated by the disproportionate effort the parties have devoted to Israel in attempts to woo the influential bloc of Jewish voters in several Toronto ridings, to the exclusion of almost every other possible foreign issue.

In the weeks of campaigning, none of the party leaders has raised another issue touching on Canada's role in the world. It is a disturbing sign of Canada's isolationist tendencies and withdrawal from world affairs.

Prime Minister Trudeau is well-thought of by his foreign counterparts. He has ringing personal endorsements from U.S. Vice-President Walter Mondale ("he is a priceless asset to the industrialized world") and German chancellor Helmut Schmidt is said to consider Trudeau his only intellectual equal among world leaders. But personal friendships have not led to any greater international influence. One year Trudeau passed up the traditional invitation to speak to the United Nations general assembly, because he had nothing to say. This admirable candor met with favorable comment at the time, but does it not also suggest a poor attitude towards the UN?

Early in his prime ministership, Trudeau emphasized Canada's foreign connections with trips abroad, recognition of China, an exchange of ambassadors with the Vatican, and so on. His government pushed a "third option" for Canada in the world, moving beyond its traditional subservient relations with the U.S. and Great Britain to closer ties with Europe and third world nations. Canada seemed to be taking on a new and reinvigorated role.

But lately his government has hastened back to its comfortable role in the special relationship with the U.S. and any originality in Canadian foreign policy has been extinguished. The prime minister's early achievements are only dimly remembered.

Clark's well-publicized world tour last year was an attempt to give the Tory leader some credibility at home. Unfortunately, the trip was designed as no more than that, a blatant publicity gimmick. And Clark was so clearly out of his depth that the general conclusion was it did him more harm than good. The best that can be said of Clark is that he is willing to learn.

The principal campaigners also betrayed an identical reluctance to talk about trade, except as it affected special interest groups among Canadian voters. Clark promised to boost grain exports by 50 per cent within six years by increasing terminal capacity at the ports of Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Churchill, by maintaining the statutory Crow's Nest freight rates for grain and subsidizing the railways to carry prairie grain. The extra shipping capacity would be worth about $2 billion, according to one estimate.

Trying to hold Iona Campagnolo's riding of Skeena, the Liberals have countered with a $150 million bulk loading terminal at Prince Rupert to handle coal, sulphur and potash as well as grain, and the Canadian Wheat Board has said it might build a $100 million grain storage terminal there.

As he opened the election campaign seven weeks ago, the prime minister talked of a "decade of economic development" which was probably the shortest-lived campaign slogan ever. Although he announced a series of subsidies for Canadian industry, the amounts are small and spread over as much as six or seven years. They do not justify the PM's grandiose slogan.

One may criticize the NDP's policy of a rigid planned economy, but where are the alternatives from the two major parties? It has been disappointing also that neither Clark nor Trudeau have discussed what Prof. John Crispo labels as the trend to balkanization in the provinces:

"Our national market is already too small without the provinces trying to carve it up with their buy-provincial and other nontariff barriers to the free flow of goods and services across the country. There is no use discussing an industrial strategy for this country unless this trend is arrested."

Both the Conservatives and Liberals are asking the voters to take a lot on faith.

"... never mind your mother ... she's acted sort of strange like this for the last three federal elections ... the prime minister kissed her during the 1968 campaign and she's just never, uh ..."

RICHARD GWYN

Right of self-determination

OTTAWA — By his offhand remark, "Quebec cannot vote its way out of Confederation," Joe Clark has touched off the only interesting debate of this election.

It isn't much of a debate. But, in a campaign bare of substance, it's at least the intellectual equivalent of offering a starving man a tunafish sandwich.

Clark either didn't know what he was saying, or did only to the extent of wanting to appear tough. He came across as only semi-tough, though, because having rejected the use of force to keep Quebec in, he had no answer to the obvious question: "What then would you do?"

In the debate so far, everyone has dumped upon Clark — The Montreal daily Le Devoir, Quebec Liberal leader Claude Ryan, columnists and editorialists, Solange Chaput-Rolland of the national unity task force.

No legal right

However, Pierre Trudeau, who certainly does know what he is saying, has surprised everyone by seeming to agree with Clark. Quebec as a province has no legal right to separate, Trudeau says, because our constitution makes no provision for a secession. (The only federal constitution to do so is Soviet Russia's, although Uzbekhistan would not be advised to try its luck.) Trudeau adds that Quebecers, as a people, do have a right of self-determination.

Self-determination, or the right of a people to decide their political future, is one of those cloudy concepts much loved by Liberal intellectuals, probably because it sounds progressive. The United Nations declaration on human rights declares that "All peoples have a right of self-determination," but then scuttles to safety by saying that the exercise of this right must not "fracture or threaten the territorial integrity or political unity of any sovereign state."

Two aspects of this subject need to be separated, if it is permissible to use that word. First, the symbolic aspect. Recognition of Quebec's right to self-determination is a recognition that it is, in a sociological sense, a distinct nation. Which Quebec is. If Quebec exercises this right, and answers "Nous sommes Canadiens," Quebecers will have entered Confederation freely for the first time, and perhaps will have exorcised the ghosts of the Plains of Abraham.

The political substance of the matter is quite different. Here Clark may be right, if for the wrong reasons. The national unity task force was, in my judgment, reckless to declare that Quebec has an "unequivocal" right to self-determination, on the grounds that, this "is a virtual corollary of our acceptance of the democratic process." Typically, Denis Smith in Canadian Forum praised the task force for its "democratic generosity."

Actually, democracy is a weak basis for most arguments. If democracy ruled, we'd have capital punishment, stricter abortion and censorship laws, and cutbacks in welfare, none of which the Canadian Forum would like. Instead, we have a parliamentary democracy, which is something quite different.

More to the point, the task force and its supporters are being selectively generous. They accept the right of Quebecers to separate. They ignore the coequal right of federalist Quebecers to remain within Canada. To implement this right would require a rectification of Quebec's boundaries so federalist-majority countries or townships could rejoin Canada. This would be hard to do, but no harder than to rectify Canada's boundaries to allow all of Quebec to separate.

My point is that while Quebec has a right of self-determination, that is to decide its future at Canada's expense, so equally does Canada — at Quebec's expense. "It is absurd to think that the group proposing to secede should be permitted unilaterally to dictate the conditions of secession," wrote David Cameron in his authoritative study Nationalism, Self-Determination and the Quebec Question. (Cameron then was arguing the substantive case; later, as task force research director, he argued the symbolic one.)

Parallel rights

In advance of the referendum, which probably will be held this fall, Quebecers ought to be made aware of Canada's parallel right — and to be blunt, power — to exercise self-determination itself. A rectification of Quebec's borders (probably in the west) to accommodate federalists who want to remain Canadians, would be demanded. Similarly, a return would be demanded of the northern lands (Ungava, James Bay) given to Quebec after it entered Confederation, and in its status as a province of Canada.

Morally, if not legally, Quebecers have a right of self-determination, and they have the political power to implement the result. But — a big but, this — Canada has greater political power, and would exercise it to keep within Canada those parts of Quebec to which we have a valid claim.

To allow Quebecers to suppose otherwise — English-Canadians would not lift a finger to "save" Westmount, but being sentimentalists, would for the Inuit of Ungava — is to be, not generous, but muddle-headed.

Oil spill risk

The Americans propose an oil port at Port Angeles. They have studied the proposal and its ramifications for their coastline (we've seen no studies) and produced a set of charts, one of which projects a major spill during September sea conditions. Blackened is the entire south coast of Vancouver Island, from Victoria to the west coast trail. What would such an occurrence do to Victoria's economy?

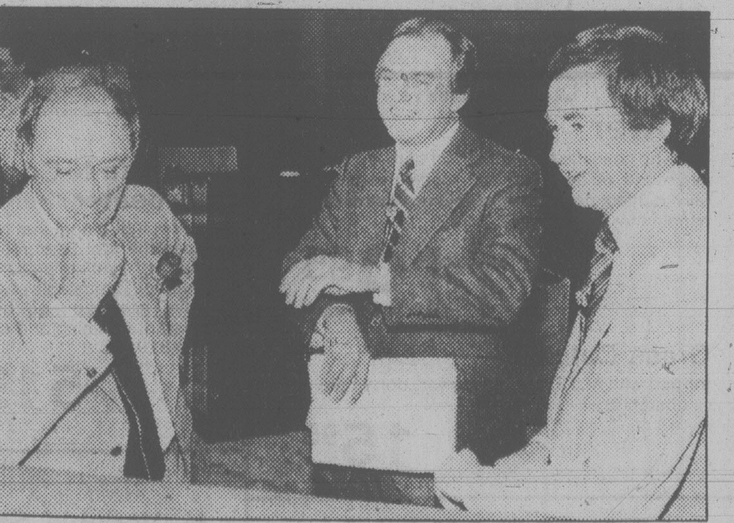
One mentions also that oil tanker traffic would treble in our already cramped and ill-regulated strait. Is there an office seeker, federal or provincial, who will help us protect our most valuable and vulnerable coast? — Mrs. N. J. Goudie, P.O. Box 479, Sooke.

Keep it

I was very disturbed and annoyed at the arrogance and disregard of Victoria's Advisory Planning Commission, to quote, "we are looking at downtown Victoria as a major shopping centre." God forbid.

Having lived in Toronto and seen cities like Calgary and Edmonton deteriorate into highrise "shopping centres" — a lot of streets in Calgary do not receive sunshine — many residents are disgusted with the urban mess and it begins with people like Ald. Bob Wright and his ideas of the largest shopping centre on Vancouver Island, complete with "numerous parkades."

Victoria is the last (decent) city left in Canada; it has yet to be exploited by the developers. It has the Parliament Buildings, the Empress, quaint lighting, cute shops, alleys and a quality of life not to be found anywhere else in Canada. Please, please let's keep it that way. — Gerald W. Donaldson, 640 Dallas Road.



Trudeau, Broadbent and Clark meet before TV debate.

Don't bribe Quebec

In 1968 Mr. Trudeau stated that he would cut government spending. The fact is he increased it by more than 230 per cent. He also said he would reduce the federal civil service — it has doubled.

Two friends of mine have just returned from Toronto. Both had to phone Air Canada to change their reservations. Both noted in the telephone book that the English number was a toll number but the French number was a Zenith number, with no charge. This may seem like a small thing to you but to me it is big as a mountain.

Young men in B.C. have been trying to get into the RCMP and the navy, but because they cannot speak French they are turned down.

Billions of dollars, yours and mine, are being poured into the province of Quebec, in various ways. In a ten year period the federal government paid out $842 million in their regional economic expansion program in Quebec. B.C. got $54.5 million. Quebec has received 51 per cent of all equalization money from the federal government since 1967-68.

I hope Quebec remains in Confederation, but I am not willing to continue bribing them to do so.

We simply cannot afford Pierre Elliot Trudeau any longer. The Progressive Conservatives are the only group which stands a chance to beat him. A vote for anyone else but the Conservative candidate is a vote for Trudeau, because it divides the vote. — Hazel Fee, Duncan.

Vietnam's struggle

"Hands off Vietnam" was the message of the B.C. Peace Council when a demonstration by close to 200 people picketed the Chinese consulate in Vancouver recently. Soon after that demonstration news came that the Chinese had withdrawn their troops after having carried out a "punitive" operation in Vietnam. Many people viewed this as purely a matter between China and Vietnam and not worth bothering about, and this is understandable, considering how much of the news is either sketchy or slanted.

The fact is that Chinese actions threaten all the people of southeast Asia and even the people of the world. And it behooves us to understand what is going on, or Canada may be sucked into a war which ordinary people do not want.

It is not at all clear that China has withdrawn her troops to the Chinese side of the historical border. China has her own ideas of the border and in many places has moved the border markers in order to claim Vietnamese territory. Chinese provocations along the 1,400-kilometre border between Vietnam and China have gone on for many years.

A great many people equate China's unprovoked invasion of Vietnam and the assistance Vietnam gave to the Cambodian uprising. However, a look at the events in Cambodia puchea indicates that blaming Vietnam for an "invasion" of Cambodia is a terrible slander. The Pol Pot-Ieng Sary regime in Cambodia was trained, led and supplied with military equipment by Peking. Since April, 1977, the ruling clique has organized military attacks on the border provinces of Vietnam. The Cambodian army massacred Vietnamese civilians with extreme ferocity, in the same way as they were massacring the people of their own country.

The Pol Pot regime destroyed about one-third of the Cambpdian people, educated people being treated with particular ferocity. A number of uprisings occurred but they were put down with great severity. Finally when the Pol Pot regime put 19 of Cambodia's 23 divisions on Vietnam's border the time was ripe for overthrowing the hated regime. It was only natural that Vietnam would give aid to the Cambodians in their struggle, but there is no reliable evidence of a Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia.

If the Chinese leaders continue in their efforts to control southeast Asia the Chinese people will suffer. They deserve something better than to be made "cannon fodder" in a war for which there is no justification. The World Peace Council calls on all peoples and their governments to publicly condemn the Chinese aggression and support the demand for withdrawal of Chinese troops from Vietnamese soil. — Dorothy Morrison for the B.C. Peace Council.

Happy Birthday

May 10 marked the eighth birthday of NEED — Victoria's Crisis Line. The board of directors wants to take this public opportunity to thank the many people who volunteer their resources in time, energy, interest, money and spirit to make our service possible. During the past eight years we have had the privilege of working with over 500 telephone volunteers, as well as many volunteers offering other kinds of assistance in responding to the 100,000 calls we have received at NEED.

We deeply appreciate all the effort put out to keep this service responsible to those in our community who need and use it.

Thanks go also to our funding sources, the ministry of human resources, the United Way and the four core municipalities, Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, and Victoria for their continued support.

We are looking forward to the coming year and the challenges it will bring. Happy Eighth Birthday, NEED! — The Board of Directors, NEED.

On credit?

I am 17 years old and have applied for five shares in BCRIC.

I understand that along with every citizen in B.C. I am entitled to buy up to 5,000 shares. $30,000 is an impossible sum for me. I have saved $1,000 from some jobs I have had, and could use this to buy more than 100 shares and a vote, but I will need the funds for my living expenses during my school year, and would probably have to cash them in and so lose my vote.

Is there any way that my entitlement could be earmarked for me — I could pay the sum off gradually over the years, but to come up with that sort of cash between now and June 15 is impossible for me. Otherwise what will happen to my entitlement? Will it go to thoe who have the money right now?

I hope something can be done about this as I want to be part of the future of my province. — Christina Nicol, 1475 Banff Place.

At long last, Britain nabs the Robin Hood Gang

By WILLIAM SAFIRE
New York Times

THATCHER . . . it took a woman

By electing a Conservative Parliament headed by Margaret Thatcher, the British voter has at last arrested Robin Hood: The notorious brigand of Sherwood Forest, Nottinghamshire, has been something of a hero in English-American folklore ever since his mention in the 14th-century Piers Plowman. That is because Hood and his motley crew of early Socialists — Little John, Friar Tuck, Alan-a-Dale and Maid Marion (the Jane Fonda of her day) — "robbed from the rich and gave to the poor". That is now called "income redistribution" and has had a good press for five centuries.

However, American economist Arthur Laffer, the tax-cut evangelist and ideological father of Proposition 13, has been putting forward a revisionist theory that Robin Hood and his band were villains, well-meaning meddlers who actually harmed the poor they were reputed to help.

Rich merchants on their way through Sherwood Forest, the reader will recall, were hijacked by the Hood gang (called "Merry Men" by apologists) and relieved of the proceeds of their business on a progressive basis — the more the merchant made, the greater the percentage that was taken from him. These tax-like proceeds, less a bureaucratic overhead to pay for the comely Marian's riding habit, were given to the poor for their welfare.

Take the legend a chapter further, economist Laffer suggests: What did the merchants then do? Some hired a legion of guards to ride quiver through the forest; others avoided Sherwood Forest entirely, going the long way round to pick up and deliver their goods. Either way, the cost of doing business increased, since guards had to be paid, or horses hired for extra transportation, to avoid Robin Hood.

Merchants had to add these additional costs to the price of the goods they sold. Thus, the poor were worse off than before Robin Hood began helping them, because the price of necessities went up (inflation) and the distributions from Robin Hood could not keep pace as merchants avoided his forest (shrinking of the tax-base). In robbing from the rich (adding to costs, stealing incentive) Hood and his Piers Plowman pinkos ultimately hurt the poor.

The original Hood — who was probably the Earl of Huntington in disguise, your typical elitist do-gooder — was bled to death by a woman, the Prioress of Kirkley. Significantly, it has taken another woman, the redoubtable Mrs. Thatcher, to nab the modern Robin Hoods who have been bleeding the United Kingdom since the end of the Second World War, and to roll back the Welfare State.

Prime Minister Thatcher, having arrested the Merry Band, now faces the question of what to do with them. She and her hard-line Tories have the only strong mandate in Western Europe to junk the debilitating Merry Band philosophy: as the Conservative manifesto pledges, to "cut income tax at all levels to reward hard work, responsibility and success". This means a reversal of nationalization, a shift from income taxes to sales taxes and a curb on the I'm-all-right-Jack power of unions.

Will she be the reformer in office that she was on the campaign trail? Already, English and American election interpreters are suggesting that she will be more "responsible" than "radical" — that is, she will not rock the boat. If she does try to keep her promises, union leaders are primed to charge Thatcher-Tory rape.

The Carter administration is putting out that same line in foreign affairs, wishfully thinking that the Conservative campaign rhetoric will soon soften. The litmus test will be the policy toward Zimbabwe-Rhodesia: Tories have pledged to "move to lift sanctions" (possible weasel words are "move to"), which the Young-Moose-Solarz set in Washington still opposes. The U.S. State Department assures one and all that the Thatcher government will do nothing before the august Commonwealth meeting in Zambia in August.

I wonder. To paraphrase Churchill, Mrs. Thatcher did not become the first woman to become the Queen's first minister because she is made of cotton candy. She has the momentum of a resounding victory behind her, and the force of public opinion on her side today. If she is ever going to count for anything at home or in the world's councils, she is going to have to establish a reputation for boldness soon.

If she temporizes on the need for income tax reduction, or if she tries too hard to accommodate the foreign policy of an American administration already afflicted with terminal lame-duckiness, her monument in British history will be made of vanilla ice cream.

But I do not think that Maggie Thatcher will abandon principle and swerve sharply to the middle. She sees the tide running to the right, on both sides of the Atlantic, giving her government the opportunity to make a real difference. Robin Hood stands exposed as a villain; in the next remake of the film, a dashing Errol Flynn will play the good-guy sheriff of Nottingham.

The public pays

THE GLOBE AND MAIL

British Columbia's law society has filed notice that it intends to appeal a recent decision of the B.C. Supreme Court which found that lawyers, not unlike the rest of us, are subject to federal anti-combines legislation and cannot impose on themselves a blanket prohibition on advertising. What particularly concerns the law society is not discreet advertising by lawyers of their preferred areas of practice (it has already amended its bylaws to accommodate this), but that the judgement might permit price advertising.

And a good thing too. The public has every right — and a very real need — to know what different lawyers will charge for basic legal services; and since the public is paying, the public should be served.

The legal profession can move to permit the advertising of price schedules. Or it can wait for courts or governments to force the issue, and tell it that it must permit such advertising. Because such advertising is as surely on the way to Canada as it has arrived in the United States.

Californians push for rent controls

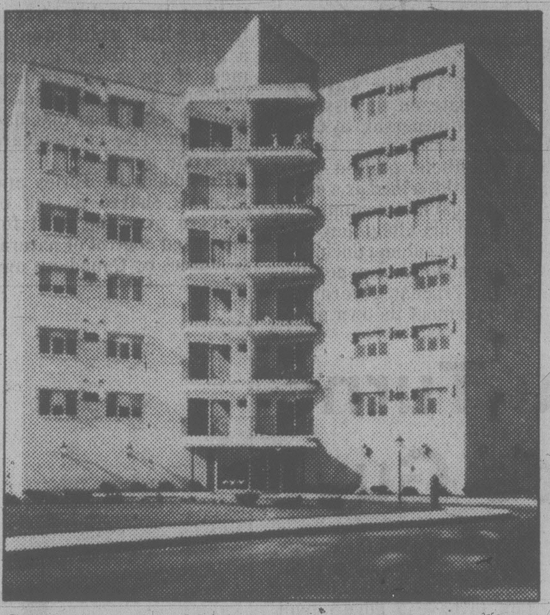
THE ECONOMIST

SAN FRANCISCO — First controls on property taxes, now controls on rents. A wave of local rent-control laws is sweeping California, where last summer the voters passed Proposition 13 and so set rolling a tax-cutting ball that has crossed America and Europe and not yet come to rest. In California Proposition 13 has put a crimp on many local services such as parks, libraries, street lighting and school activities. It has shifted much of their financing from local to state government. It has deprived California's public workers at all levels of the pay increases they expected. It has held welfare payments down. But the new laws restricting landlords' freedom over their own property is the first marked change in political structures to follow the tax revolt.

Hailed as "the tenant's proposition 13", the rent-control laws are all designed to stop the rent increases that have been imposed in most Californian towns in defiance of landlords' promises last year that the benefits of their lower taxes would be passed on to tenants. Most of the new laws have been engineered by action groups, reinforced by throngs of unorganized tenants descending on city councils en masse. Rich and poor, they are outraged at the rent increases imposed on them, when they know that all landlords have enjoyed a cut of roughly 60 per cent in their usual local property taxes,

Some good-hearted owners did, indeed, cut rents after the passage of Proposition 13 last June. But within two months it became clear that most would not. A tumult of anger engulfed public officials in the autumn. Hot-line switchboards to convey tenant protests were set up by various mayors and even by Governor Jerry Brown, who pleaded personally with many individual property owners and managers to share their new tax benefits voluntarily. But, as jawboning subsided without visible effect, political activists moved in to counter rent increases in other ways.

As a result, California's normally conservative political face has been flushed in many communities by an array of rent regulations that would have been unthinkable intrusions on private enterprise a short time ago. Rent-control laws came into effect on May 1 in San Francisco and Los Angeles, for instance, though Los Angeles has had a temporary freeze in effect since last August, holding rents at their May, 1978, levels. San Francisco has brought in a rent freeze and a 60-day rent-control plan, as well as halting landlords' suddenly popular ploy of converting apartments to condominiums, which are bought outright, not rented. Tenants who cannot afford to buy must move out. Both cities, like many smaller California towns, are short of rented accommodation; tight money inflation and environmental controls have dried up new building.



Some apartment block-owners pocketed tax savings

Rent controls came first in university communities such as Berkeley, where landlords were ordered last November to return to tenants 80 per cent of their Proposition 13 benefit, and Davis, where the entire tax reduction was ordered to be passed on to tenants. But the movement has received its most recent impetus from upper-class areas and the tenants of luxury apartments. Beverly Hills, Hollywood's elegant bedroom community, adopted rent control a few months ago. Luxurious Santa Monica, lapped by the Pacific, fringed to the north and east by mountains and to the south by Los Angeles airport and labyrinthine freeways, has just followed suit. It is a land speculator's paradise: 80 per cent of Santa Monica's inhabitants live in property owned by somebody else, often absentee corporations. On April 17 it voted to roll back rents to pre-Proposition 13 levels.

After an earlier, unsuccessful, drive for rent control, Santa Monica witnessed this spring the most disciplined political campaign that left-leaning activists have staged anywhere in California at the local level in the past five years. Property interests spent $182,000 opposing the measure, while Santa Monicans for Renters' Rights and similar groups spent only $28,000 altogether; but the law was passed and two tenant leaders were catapulted on to the usually conservative Santa Monica city council, replacing business spokesmen. As in Los Angeles, where controls on May 1 replaced a freeze, the Santa Monica plan permits some adjustments for maintenance costs. These must be approved by a five-member board to be chosen at a forthcoming election. Los Angeles will allow annual rent increases of up to 7 per cent; its controls expire, unless renewed, after only one year. Even briefer are San Francisco's controls: 60 days. But its freeze is clearly a stop-gap measure pending something more permanent.

Ralph Nader, the consumer activist, believes the root of California's housing problem to be an inequitable structure that has fostered land speculation by absentee landlords. The Los Angeles Times thinks rather that it is a shortage of housing, claiming that vacancy rates in the city are the lowest in the nation. Landlords argue that regulation will only aggravate the shortage, driving them out of business and discouraging proper maintenance. They predict more urban decay in the wake of conrols. The courts offer property owers some hope of escape. Suits challenging the legality of rent controls are springing up in every city, and in one, Davis, a judge has already ruled in the landlords' favor.

The making of a porno classic

By ROGER ROSENBLATT

My curiosity, such as it is, was piqued the other day as I stood in line to buy movie tickets for a revival of The Portrait of Dorian Gray, and noticed a billboard advertising a revival of The Devil in Miss Jones. The Devil in Miss Jones was a notorious X-rated movie in the days before Woodward and Bernstein gave Deep Throat a good name. But I had thought the day of The Devil had long passed, and so I asked the ticket seller how the movie came to be shown again. "It's a classic," he explained. "You really ought to see it."

Well, in fact, I have already seen The Devil in Miss Jones, and was, also in fact, one of the first ever to see it — at least in the city of Boston. What's more, I now realize I may have had some small part in making the movie a classic, by the following circuitous route:

One sultry Friday afternoon in the spring of 1973, when the rest of the world was kissing and playing tennis, and I, then a doddering young professor, was stuck in an office, grading exams, in came a phone call from a Boston lawyer who said American liberty needed my help. He represented the distributors of The Devil in Miss Jones. (Had I heard of it? No.) It's a very important film, he said. One day it will be a classic.

But, he continued ominously, there is considerable risk that The Devil in Miss Jones will not be allowed to open in Boston, because, in spite of the fact that it is a very important film, and a future classic, it is, of course, explicitly sexual, and you know how Massachusetts judges are. They did it to the witches, and they did it to Sacco and Vanzetti, and they'll do it to The Devil in Miss Jones — unless I and a few other decent-minded liberals would testify in court that the movie had "redeeming social value."

So he asked would I view the movie privately in a downtown theatre that afternoon, and I told him no, my exams lying before me. But had I no desire to see justice done? No. But we can pay you $500.

I then phoned my wife, and asked: "How'd you like to go see a dirty movie this afternoon?" Without asking who was calling, she accepted. Within an hour the two of us were seated alone in a Boston movie theatre, in the company of an unseen projectionist, who may have been blindfolded, and The Devil in Miss Jones, which ought to have been. My wife, gaping at the screen as if she had just met the mother in Psycho. I, taking notes in the dark.

I will not here or anywhere describe what I remember of The Devil in Miss Jones, which is almost everything. Enough to say that having not seen an X-rated movie before, indeed having up to that time regarded The Portrait of Dorian Gray as about as wild as a movie can get, I was surprised. Nor have I comfortably touched a piece of fruit since. When we returned home from the theatre the lawyer called to ask how we'd enjoyed it. Enjoyment was not how I'd put it. At the moment I was more concerned about my wife, who had not uttered a word since we had left the theatre.

Nevertheless, the challenge was to discover some redeeming social value in The Devil in Miss Jones, and so, like any well-trained academic, I set about to determine the overall design of the movie, not to mention the underlying philosophy. To be sure, the movie was filthy, outrageous, disgraceful and vile. Yet was there not a hint of Dante's Inferno in the scene where she did this to him, and the two men did that to her? And was it all not essentially classical?

Whipped into an intellectual frenzy, I had almost succeeded in driving the actual movie from my mind. And on the following day, I was fully prepared to share my findings with the world and the Massachusetts judiciary, when again the lawyer phoned, this time in sadness. Thanks anyway, he said, but we had lost the case. It seemed that the judge, having heard that a bunch of professors were going to screen The Devil in Miss Jones, went off to see the movie for himself, at which he was disgusted to the point of vomiting, and after which, as he put it, no pudding-brained liberal was going to tell him a skin flick was a classic.

"What about my $500?" Sorry.

Of course, as we all now know, The Devil in Miss Jones has become a classic in spite of the judge's ruling, proving, once again, how wrong a Massachusetts judge can be. All of which, in turn, has led me to conclude that a classic is anything that: a) lasts; b) is banned in Boston; c) costs $500; and d) shows you up for the greedy hypocritical rat you really are.

By PAUL WHITELAW
FP News Service

VANCOUVER — Attempting to defuse Conservative charges that voting NDP will help keep the Liberals in power, Ed Broadbent last night told one of the biggest crowds of his campaign there is little difference between the leadership of "Pierre Clark and Joe Trudeau."

The NDP leader also took pains to dispel any impression of chumminess between his party and the Liberals that may have been created when Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau addressed him on a first-name basis during the televised election debate.

Broadbent told a crowd of about 2,500 people in a Vancouver hotel ballroom that Trudeau "must be defeated" and charged the PM had "misled" people watching the debate on the issue of resource ownership by Canadians.

Broadbent quoted from what he described as a confidential cabinet document to back up his allegation, saying: "That cabinet document said it had not been possible for the Trudeau government to implement its own promise to ensure that Canadian resources were controlled by Canadians."

Referring to the debate, the NDP leader stated: "Well, did you notice he (Trudeau) became a friend . . . Ed, he called me. Well, for me to become a friend takes more than calling me by my first name."

Broadbent, turning his attention to Clark's charge that the NDP would prop up a minority Liberal government if given the chance, noted the Tories had backed Liberal legislation that had led to the rise of medicare deterrent fees.

He added the Tories and Liberals shared a lack of concern over the need for increased control of natural resources by Canadians and had voted against the NDP's proposal for a Fair Prices Commission with rollback powers.

Broadbent's hopes for big gains in the key British Columbia election battleground — where 28 seats are at stake — have been buoyed by the strong showing of the party in last week's provincial election.

Trudeau Turns 'Mr. Nice Guy'

By JIM ROBB
FP News Service

EDMONTON — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau was Mr. Nice Guy here Monday night, starting the final week of the election campaign. He could afford to be. Trudeau drew a crowd estimated at 4,000 at a rally for nine Liberal candidates in Alberta.

The prime minister has hanged tactics in the way he handles hecklers. He took on a solitary heckler gently, in contrast to the chippy way he has behaved towards others in past weeks.

Devoting all of 45 seconds to his renewed enthusiasm for immediate patriation and reform of the constitution, Trudeau spent a half-hour rehashing his themes on energy and inflation, tying them to the need for a strong central government.

"The country is just wanting to go forward under strong leadership that will keep it united," the prime minister told his boisterous, overflow audience in the city's Jubilee Auditorium, which seats 2,700.

Perhaps buoyed by his solid performance in Sunday night's national television debate with the other party leaders, Trudeau appeared happy and at ease even though the chances of electing a Liberal here are, at best, remote.

The prime minister was accompanied by Industry Minister Jack Horner, whom he virtually ignored during the rally. Horner sat glumly during Trudeau's speech, in contrast to the eight other candidates who were all smiles, basking in the reflected glory of the prime minister.

Trudeau repeated one of his favorite campaign points, that energy prices in recent years have risen by 760 per cent, and that gasoline prices in the last three months have climbed by 14 per cent and will increase by 25 per cent between December and June.

Trudeau called the energy crisis a "clear and present danger" and said it is important to have a government able to deal with it.

He then praised Albertans for accepting less than the world price for their oil so that other provinces would not suffer acutely from rising prices.

He said that by working with Alberta the federal government had been able to set a price that was good for all of Canada as well as the producing provinces.

He criticized Conservative leader Joe Clark for being unable to state what his pricing policy on oil would be and attacked him as well for wanting to do away with Petrocan, the government energy company.

The prime minister then turned to inflation and attacked both New Democratic Party leader Ed Broadbent and Clark for wanting to increase the federal government's deficit to provide more economic stimulus.

Dief Predicts Demise of PM

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker had little to say Monday about the party leaders' televison debate except to predict the demise of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

"You know I have nothing to say about this debate," Diefenbaker said.

"But Mr. Trudeau's face told it all. He knows he's on his way out."

Diefenbaker did not comment on the performances of Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark or New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent.

Telephones in his campaign headquarters rang steadily Monday as reporters beseiged him for his assessment of the debate.

"This is a national election, not a peanut performance," he indignantly told a television reporters.

Monday also marked an anniversary for Diefenbaker. It was the 39th anniversary of the day he was first sworn in as a member of Parliament.

Looking back on those tumultuous years has convinced Canada's 13th prime minister there is no higher calling than public office.

"I love Pariliament and I love the people of Canada," he said. "When I sit here now at this stage of my life and look back, I feel nothing but satisfaction."

Joe Ignores Davis Snub

ELECTION 79

TORONTO (CP) — Joe Clark kept silent Monday in the face of the fact that his chief ally, Conservative Premier William Davis of Ontario, made clear he opposes Clark's position on the bringing home of the Canadian constitution from Westminster.

There was no comment from the federal Conservative leader's camp after Davis issued a statement saying there is urgent need to move the constitution to Ottawa with or without agreement by the provinces.

The statement agrees with what Liberal Prime Minister Trudeau has been saying and conflicts with Clark statements that the constitution cannot be moved without provincial co-operation.

It came only eight days before Canada chooses a government and a day after Trudeau and Clark disagreed on Davis's position during a national television debate.

And it came only a short time after Trudeau's office in Ottawa issued a statement showing that Davis said last February that "if necessary," the constitution should be patriated without hindrance of the provinces.

"Mr. Clark was dead wrong last night," the statement trumpeted.

Clark was travelling in the Atlantic provinces when Davis's statement was released here. Asked for comment, officials said they wanted to read Davis's statement. The Clark party campaigns here today.

In wheeling Davis into the election battle as ammunition against Clark, the Liberals were obviously attempting to take advantage of Clark's slip in the same manner that Jimmy Carter and the Democrats did of a similar mis-statement by Gerald Ford in their televised confrontation during the 1976 U.S. election. Time will tell whether viewers — and the voters — take it quite so seriously.

The situation amused New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent.

Commenting in Vancouver, he said "it just shows the high level of co-operation that exists between the two levels of the Conservative party and the usual reliability of Mr. Clark."

Watch the Petunias!

EDMONTON (CP) — "Don't walk on the grass. You can be seen through the windows and trampled petunias can cost votes."

That advice is contained in a handbook for Progressive Conservative canvassers.

The 12-page booklet — a copy of which was obtained by The Journal — tells canvassers, who do door-to-door campaigning on behalf on candidates in the May 22 federal election, that "personal contact between candidate and voters is an absolute must."

As most voters never see a candidate in person during the campaign, the canvasser is "the only personal link between most voters and your candidate."

Other suggestions to canvassers include: "Do not discuss policy. This is the candidate's job."

Ont. Medicare Cut-Off Threatened

TORONTO (CP) — Federal health-care payments to Ontario will be stopped unless the provincial government ends the erosion of the medicare system, Monique Begin, federal health minister, said Monday.

Ontario received $2.3 billion in federal transfer payments for health-care services for 1979-1980, but the province's contributions have been dropping every year, Begin told a news conference.

She said the $2.3 billion represents about 64 per cent of Ontario's health-care costs.

The minister said she would give the provincial government a chance to study statistics on health care prepared by her officials and to comment on the basic conditions the federal government has set down for cost-sharing of the medicare system.

Withholding federal transfer payments never has been done since Confederation, Begin said.

"I hope I don't have to go as far as witholding payments."

She said she feared that if medicare was allowed to erode in Ontario other provinces could follow.

"I am trying to save medicare."

The payments would be cut off unless Ontario met with certain conditions.

She said her department has listed five conditions that provinces must comply with to receive health-care payments and the most important one is that medicare must be reasonably accessible to the people.

The other conditions are that medicare be universal, portable, comprehensive and that the administration of the system be public and without profit.

She said transfer payments for health care are tied to these five conditions, but the conditions were only recently defined by her department, and only now being told to the Ontario government.

Now, guidelines for the provinces to meet the conditions are being prepared by Begin's department. But she didn't know when the guidelines would be ready.

Before the federal government withholds payments the province must understand what she called the rules of the game.

She said the Ontario Health Insurance Plan is funded almost entirely by the federal government and by premiums paid by the residents of Ontario — the province paying less than eight per cent of the bill.

When federal transfer payments for health care began in 1976 it was on the condition that the province pay 50 per cent of the cost of OHIP.

But Begin said that even including premiums, the province's contribution to OHIP is about 36 per cent.

She said the situation is not as serious in other provinces, although Alberta and British Columbia also have premiums as well as their general taxation.

Candidate Meeting Pulls Few

The three candidates for the Victoria seat in the May 22 federal election attracted a light turnout at a generally dull all-candidates' meeting Monday.

About 60 people heard incumbent Tory MP Allan McKinnon, NDP Gretchen Brewin and Liberal Robert Monaghan outline their party platforms and field questions from the floor and a special panel at the Oak Bay junior secondary auditorium.

The debate will be televised on Channel 10 Wednesday and repeated Saturday night.

McKinnon attacked Prime Minister Trudeau for the increase in the cost of living and the election of the Parti Quebecois in Quebec.

The Tory stand on Quebec is firm and steady, however, and would not include negotiating a sovereignty association with the province, he said.

Monaghan criticized the Conservatives' current position on Quebec, noting that party leader Joe Clark at one time favored negotiating with the province for a special association with the rest of Canada.

Brewin told the gathering Canada needs an industrial strategy to determine where it is going and why.

Immediate action must be taken to control inflation and the cost of living, she said.

Pt. Angeles Spill Mopped

PORT ANGELES (AP)— An oil spill in Port Angeles harbor has been contained before it could spread into Canadian waters.

An Environment Canada spokesman said from Vancouver today that it appears the spill has been isolated in the harbor.

No oil has been sighted anywhere in the Strait of Juan de Fuca so far, he said.

Meanwhile cleanup crews are using a helicopter and skimming device to mop up the 300 to 400 gallons of fuel oil that spilled from a Greek freighter in the harbor Sunday, the United States Coast Guard said.

"The cleanup should be pretty effective," said Seattle Coast Guard spokesman Paul Scotti. "We don't believe any significant oil has gotten out into the strait (of Juan de Fuca)."

Scotti said the oil spilled from the Atlantic Horizon as it was taking on fuel from a bargey. The apparent cause was a gasket failure in one of the connecting pipes.

A helicopter was used to locate oil slicks for cleanup, Scotti said.

Steve Morgan, who operates a boat which ferries Puget Sound pilots out to ships, said he noticed oil pouring off the deck of the ship as he passed by Sunday. Morgan then radioed authorities.

After the spill was reported, the Coast Guard used booms and absorbent pads to contain and sop up the oil, Scotti said.

Widening Plan Shelved

Residents of a three-block stretch of Monterey Avenue in south Oak Bay Monday night demanded cancellation of a planned $360,000 road surfacing improvement and widening project in the 1000 to 1200 blocks.

Council agreed to postpone any immediate changes to the street pending a meeting between a committee of Monterey Avenue residents and council's Committee B.

A capacity audience applauded spokesmen who said council's road-widening plan puts it in favor of machines over people "with all the negative social consequences heretofore largely avoided by our Oak Bay community."

The residents said the road widening would serve no useful function and, in contravention of the Victoria Safety Council, would see utility poles located immediately adjacent to the road, thus increasing the probability of accidents.

They also said the road-widening would significantly lessen property values, which they claimed occurred on Henderson Road in the northern part of the municipality.

Mayor Brian Smith said council is not in the business of forcing road improvements on residents and expressed a willingness to re-examine the proposal.

Tennis Everyone!

Like to play tennis, have a lot of fun, travel and compete in a National Tournament? Maybe even play before the TV cameras?

Announcing the Buick National Mixed Doubles Tennis Challenge. It's new, strictly for recreational players who play tennis for kicks, and it's for mixed doubles only. It will be an annual series of tournaments.

The Challenge...is a mass participation, grass roots program that will be played at Four Levels: beginning in July and August at 128 Local Playdown Areas across Canada–moving on to 32 District Sites on Sept. 8–then to semi-finals at 8 Regional Sites on Sept. 15–and peaking with the Buick Challenge National Finals, Sept. 28 and 29. The Finals and Challenge Cup awards will be telecast nationally.

Everybody wins! Every Team wins something but, naturally, Winning Teams win more. Plaques, Trophies, etc. In addition to the Buick Challenge Cup, final winners receive an expense-paid trip for four persons to Wimbledon, England, to watch the 1980 Championships (est. value $5,000). Second place winners receive an expense-paid tennis holiday for four at a designated location in Canada (est. value $3,000).

Register now to play! Buick Challenge is open to Canadian citizens and permanent residents aged 18 years or more as of December 31, 1978.

Both members of a team must be amateurs and be unranked, nationally, in any category; or provincially in Men's and Women's Open and junior categories only, at any time within the last five years (since January, 1974). (Foreign equivalents also apply.) Full-time and part-time professionals (anyone who receives money for instructing tennis), Buick Challenge Co-ordinators, Tennis Canada and provincial association officers and personnel are not eligible.

Tournament brochures including Entry Forms are available at any Buick dealership (just ask), or wherever you see the Buick Challenge "counter display", or by sending in the completed coupon to BUICK CHALLENGE HEADQUARTERS,
40 St. Clair Avenue West,
Toronto Ontario M4V 1M6.

TOWN TALK

Members of the the Racquet Club of Victoria meet tonight to discuss the organization's finances and the word is that the possibility of a closure of the operation is on the agenda.

The club is awaiting a decision from an appeal board studying the club's tax assesment.

Its 1978 tax bill on land and improvements now stands at about $39,000. This is significantly lower than the $50,000-plus the club has paid in recent years, but still far above what members think would be an acceptable level.

The Gordon Head operation has had trouble drawing patrons over the last few years because of growing competition from municipal recreational facilities.

Some of the staff of the provincial postal service who handle mail for the government and its agencies have been around for quite a few years.

And sometimes that lengthy experience comes in handy in knowing where to deliver the mail.

Take Monday, for example. The postal service delivered to the Social Credit caucus two large volumes of federal government statutes from the federal ministry of supply and services.

One was addressed to Ken Kiernan, Minister of Recreation and Conservation. The other was for Ray Williston, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Why the tomes appeared at all is a mystery to the caucus. They've never received books of federal laws before.

But if that's a puzzle, even more of a wonder is why the federal ministry of supply hasn't updated its mailing list in seven years.

The last time Kiernan and Williston were ministers of the Crown was in 1972 under Premier W.A.C. Bennett. There have been three provincial elections since then.

A plaque bearing the Sidney coat of arms has been presented to Dick Leigh, who resigned the mayoralty for health reasons last month.

He attended a council ceremony with his wife, Mina, who was given a bouquet commemorating the occasion.

They were invited to a council dinner later this month, for which Leigh said he is saving his farewell speech.

Armies might run on their stomachs, but political campaigns run on money — and the federal Conservatives are getting short.

The PC's have started sending out urgent messages asking for cash contributions of between $15 and $200 or more. The fund raising gimmick comes in the form of a telegram from Paul Curley, national treasurer for the PC Party of Canada.

"Urgently request your financial assistance prior to May 22," is how it starts. It then goes on to say that the PCs are ahead in the polls, but some key areas are up for grabs.

"With just days to go, final push will be critical to election outcome. PC Canada fund needs additional finaancial boost to meet expenses and make sure all Canadians receive Conservative Message . . . time is of the essence in the remaining days."

Unfortunately the offer doesn't come with a money-back guarantee if the PCs fail to get elected.

The contrasting lifestyles of the Socreds versus the NDP were evident in the booze being served at the campaign headquarters on election night.

People at the headquarters for SCs Sam Bawlf and Mike Young quenched their thirst at a free bar while celebrators at Brian Smith's party could tipple at $1 a drink.

Victory celebrations at NDP Charles Barber and Gordon Hanson's place were more in keeping with the working-man image — beer downed from the bottle.

Ask the Times

Q. Voluntary conservation societies in B.C. don't receive grants from the provincial government to carry out research projects relevant to their functions. Can you tell me if in Britain they received any assistance? R.W.J.

A. Yes. The Nature Conservancy Council, funded by the Secretary of State in Britain, may provide grants to anyone, including voluntary bodies.

Q. Can you help me find Jane Fonda's address?

A. You can reach Ms. Fonda by writing the Public Relations Department, Columbia Pictures Industries, Colgems Square, Calif. 91505.

Society's Safeguard: The Coroner

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Morton Shulman he isn't.

But Dr. William McArthur, ex-fighter pilot, ex-surgeon, ex-air safety investigator, is B.C.'s first-ever chief coroner.

Unlike Ontario's outspoken former chief coroner, McArthur, 44, cherishes a low-key image.

Sitting in his sixth-floor office in the Law Courts building on Burdett, McArthur gazes out across the city, hazy in the afternoon sun, and speaks of the high honor that goes with the appointment.

The role of the coroner is one of the great safeguards in our society, he says. It's what distinguishes the civilized from the uncivilized world. It's a fundamental protector of the right to life because it guarantees that no one should die unnaturally without the death being publicly investigated and reported.

"If Uganda had a coroner system that worked, things that happened there would never have happened," he says.

McArthur says the right inherent in the coroner's office has been around for more than a thousand years. Only the monarchy and sheriff's office have deeper historical roots.

Originally the coroner was charged with maintaining the rights of private property of the Crown. The word derives from archaic French, coroune, or Crown. Later he became the officer who presided over inquests of persons who died by violence or accident.

His court paralleled the judiciary with this distinction: Coroner's courts have traditionally been inquisitorial as opposed to the accusatorial basis of the judicial system. The function of the court is to establish who, how, when, where and by what means a person died.

Over the years, coroner systems in various parts of the world have developed on slightly divergent lines.

In California, for example, coroners are all pathologists. In Ontario they are all doctors, too, but only some are trained in pathology. In Australia and New Zealand they are all lawyers, justices of the peace or magistrates.

But in B.C., the Coroner's Act permits the appointment of coroners from any walk of life. Some are lawyers, some doctors, many are lay people.

And because of that McArthur feels the B.C. system has a degree of flexibility that other systems might well envy.

"I'm continually impressed by the intelligent and forthright people we have who can deal with the most complex and difficult problems," he says. "But as technology advances, there is a requirement of the coroner's service to advance along with it."

Until McArthur took over the job on April 1, the coroner's service in B.C. functioned partly under the control of municipalities and partly under the province.

McARTHUR
. . . low-key image

The new chief coroner connects the service into a unified whole, giving it executive control. His major responsibility involves supervising the three other full-time and 156 part-time coroners throughout the province.

McArthur says his first task is to establish a policy paper on how the coroner's service should develop.

Among the ideas he is considering is the creation of specialist coroners, persons specialized in particular areas such as aircraft disasters, boating tragedies or alpine deaths.

McArthur brings to his job a wealth of experience.

Born in New Zealand, the grandson of a native commissioner to the Fiji Islands, McArthur grew up in Auckland.

He came to Canada when he was 18 to attend the University of B.C.

Graduating with double honors in physiology and biochemistry, he entered the Canadian Armed Forces and became a fighter pilot.

While in Europe he developed an interest in air safety. He says in his first three years a quarter of the wings corps he had graduated with died in jet crashes. He became committed to finding out why and ended up one of the force's top investigators of air accidents.

The military sent him to medical school at the University of Western Ontario in London. He graduated in 1968, interned at Toronto General Hospital, and returned to the University of Toronto in 1973 to take a diploma in public health. Between time he was base surgeon at CFB Moose Jaw.

In 1974 he commanded the Canadian Medical Forces in the Middle East, but his expertise in aviation investigations brought him back to Canada where he was put in charge of training and supervising investigators of accidental deaths in the Armed Forces.

McArthur has achieved a world-wide reputation in aviation medicine. In 1978 he served as president of the International Society of Air Safety Investigators.

McArthur, whose wife, Dr. Lynn Beattie, is an assistant professor of geriatric medicine at the University of Toronto's medical school, says he always intended to return to B.C.

His appointment is just icing on the cake.

"It's great to be back home," he says.

Logging Mishap Kills Man

A 42-year-old faller was killed Monday while working at a logging site near Jordan River.

Dead is George Peter of Otter Point Road in Sooke.

A Sooke RCMP spokesman said Peter, an employee of Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Company Ltd., died instantly in the mishap which occurred at about 10 a.m. while he was falling a tree.

Peter was the third faller killed in the Sooke-Port Renfrew logging district this year.

An inquest is expected but coroner Roy Girling has not set a date.

Vocations Courses In Sept.

The Greater Victoria school board will spend $49,000 to establish the district's first vocational careers program at S.J. Willis junior secondary in September.

The money will be used primarily to purchase equipment for courses in auto body, auto marine, beauty culture, catering, child care and horticulture.

A special screening committee will select 45 S.J. Willis students and 45 students from the rest of the district to participate in the program.

The program is not intended as an alternative for students having problems in the system. Good grades are part of the criteria for selecting students.

The careers school concept was developed by a board committee earlier this year and is designed to give grade 8, 9 and 10 students more flexible course selection.

A diagnostic and remedial centre is also part of the new school.

Broadmead Pressure Charge 'Repugnant'

Broadmead Ratepayers Association spokesman Bill Neilson today labelled "repugnant" Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier's comment his group is meddling in the work of the Advisory Planning Commission.

Neilson, vice-chairman of the association, said his group isn't pressuring anybody but just wants some facts made public before discussions of a proposed Royal Oak shopping complex take place.

"When the ratepayers ask for due process, it's obstructionism. I find that repugnant," Neilson said.

Couvelier made the comment Monday in response to the ratepayers' demands that council delay one month any discussions of a rezoning application by The Bay and Broadmead Farms to build a large shopping complex on 35 acres of residentially-zoned land east of the Pat Bay Highway between Royal Oak Drive and Royal Oak Avenue.

Couvelier rejected the idea of a month delay and said the APC's handling of the application before it goes to council is traditional and meant to save time.

"Tradition be damned. It's unlawful," said Neilson, who suggested council request a legal opinion of the procedure.

The ratepayers are asking for a professional report on the retail shopping needs of the area for the next 20 years and for public disclosure of the developer's rezoning application and the staff's evaluation of the application.

Plant Park Gets New Hearing

A second public hearing will be held May 30 on a controversial industrial park proposal in Royal Oak. Saanich council voted 4-3 Monday night to air a compromise proposal to develop about 35 of the 90 acres at Glanford and Vanalman residentially.

Mayor Mel Couvelier and aldermen Geoff Vantreight, Sandy Noel and David Paterson favored the plan with aldermen John Mika, Mary Casilio and Irene Block opposing. Aldermen Fred Severson and Howard Sturrock were absent.

Members of the Royal Oak Community Association have bitterly opposed the industrial park.

Originally the entire area was to be incorporated into the park. However, association president Ben Pires said the group is prepared, somewhat grudgingly, to consider the compromise plan, provided Glanford Anevue is made into a cul-de-sac to discourage truck traffic.

"It's only because of the mayor's stand we have been forced into this position," he said.

Pires noted Couvelier had campaigned last election to keep the area free of industrial development.

His reversal on the issue has been a betrayal of the residents' trust, Pires said.

The condition to close Glanford came under the gun of municipal engineer Cliff Warren who said he was totally opposed to the idea.

"There are all kinds of problems associated with such a suggestion," he said.

Noel also said he could not go along with the cul-de-sac plan.

"I can't agree to it just for the sake of an industrial zone," he said.

Council was told it would cost $3.6 million to develop the site. Servicing costs alone have been estimated at $54,000 to $62,000 an acre to be paid by the developers.

Pair Held In Drug Break-In

A man and woman are to appear in provincial court following a Colwood pharmacy break-in early today resulting in several thousand dollars damage and the theft of a quantity of drugs.

Colwood RCMP arrested the pair shortly after an alarm at the St. Anthony's Clinic Pharmacy, 562 Goldstream, at 1:30 a.m.

Police used a tracking dog to flush out a man from bushes near the store and a 25-year-old woman was picked up later riding in a taxi.

A pharmacy spokesman assessed damage at $4,000 to $5,000.

Mounties Backed

The RCMP received a vote of confidence Monday when Sidney council discussed a complaint that police were harassing patrons of the Sidney Hotel bar.

Council dismissed the complaint by the Chamber of Commerce as unfounded.

Hotel manager Dennis Paquette was reluctant to discuss the situation but did say that a number of people had complained about how the RCMP were policing the location.

Paquette said he has met with RCMP officials and is hopeful the situation can be resolved.

Changes Urged by Hanson in Bawlf's Plans for City

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria NDP MLA Gordon Hanson said today Sam Bawlf's plans for Victoria should be significantly changed.

Hanson said the former Socred deregulation minister's projects are faulty on two points:

—Restoration of heritage buildings was occurring on a piecemeal basis, without any over-all theme.

—There was not enough public input in development of the downtown core, particularly the Inner Harbor.

Hanson, who helped defeat Bawlf in the May 10 provincial election, credited him with working to beautify the capital city but said some of the projects may have moved forward too quickly without adequate time for public discussion.

As an example, he said, there should be a public meeting called as soon as possible to discuss development of the Ocean Cement site, which is currently a parking lot on the Wharf St. waterfront.

"It should be a big public meeting, held in McPherson Playhouse, if possible," Hanson said.

"We are talking about an important site in downtown Victoria."

Hanson was commenting on a statement by newly-elected Social Credit MLA Brian Smith (Oak Bay—Gordon Head) who announced Monday he and fellow Socred Hugh Curtis would be responsible for ensuring that proects started by Bawlf would be completed.

Smith also said he would serve as a spokesman for the Victoria business community as there is no longer a Socred MLA in the riding.

Hanson said he and fellow NDP MLA Charles Barber will be available to Victoria merchants if requested.

"We are offering our services to all our constituents," he said. "If some Victoria businessmen would feel more comfortable dealing with Brian Smith — well, that's their privilege but I hope they don't think they would get an unfriendly reception from us. We want to help as much as we can."

Hanson said the NDP considers itself the main spokesman for small business, which takes in most of the ones in the Victoria area.

As for the Victoria waterfront, Hanson said, a theme should be devised for Wharf Street redevelopment. As an archeologist, he felt it would be appropriate to redevelop all Wharf Street on the colonial theme because there were many vestiges of the colonial days there.

On the other hand, redevelopment of the tank farm area across the harbor should be on the Indian theme because Indians had settled on the site something like 3,000 or 4,000 years ago.

"One project would act as a counterpoint to the other. We have neglected the Indian heritage of this area."

He said Bawlf's development plans were often carried out one building at a time with no thought for an overriding theme.

The promenade along much of the waterfront will be extended but it must mean something and must go somewhere.

It could become a stroll through history if the theme is properly explored and developed, he said.

Two projects that have a high priority for the NDP are completion of the convention centre and development of the Vic West community.

The latter, Hanson said, should be cleaned up and beautified, especially the industrial areas.

Hanson said Bawlf's plan to renovate St. Ann's Academy should be amended to turn it into a permanent meeting centre for Victoria's 31 ethnic groups. Hanson said the time has come for ethnic groups to co-operate together instead of carrying out uncoordinated programs in the region,

(Bawlf was working for the restoration of the academy but had not designated a use. He had proposed that the convention centre should be used on a year-round basis by Victoria ethnic groups as well as for meetings.)

Hanson said that while the NDP has strong feelings about Victoria development, especially on the question of more public participation, the party puts an even higher priority on job creation.

The city should make greater use of its marine access to create employment, he said.

For example, fish processing should be expanded and work should begin as soon as possible to create a commercial fishermen's wharf that would be a tourist attraction and provide more jobs for Victoria.

Victoria's unemployment level is far too high, he said, and this should be one of the first questions tackled by local members in the next session of the legislature.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was mixed in mid-afternoon trading today. Activity was moderate.

The TSE 300 index was up 1.65 to 1,455.19 but declines outnumbered advances 181 to 159 with 231 issues unchanged.

Among industrials, Power Corp. gained ¾ to $28, Seagram Co. ¾ to $36¾, Falconbridge Nickel A ¾ to $56½, Imperial Oil A ⅝ to $27⅞ and Versatile Cornat ⅝ to $14⅜.

Asbestos Corp. lost ⅞ to $45, Cominco ⅞ to $34⅝, Westburne International ¾ to $39¾, Aquitaine of Canada ½ to $30¾ and Rolland Paper A ½ to $9¼.

Dome Mines jumped 8¼ to $132, Camflo Mines ⅝ to $14⅛ and Dickenson Mines ⅜ to $7¼. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting fell ¾ to $19¼.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a modest rally today, attracting some buyers at its lowest level in more than two months.

Analysts said investors remained concerned that rising energy prices and gasoline supply problems would aggravate inflation and slow economic activity.

But also noted strength among stocks picked out by traders as possible beneficiaries of the gasoline situation. Greyhound, for example, was up ⅜ to $15 after a gain of 1 Monday.

Gambling stocks were strong, continuing their rebound from last week's selloff.

Polaroid fell 1⅝ to $31. The company said it planned to lay off 800 workers because of excess inventories.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed in light-to-moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange today. Alberta Gas Trunk A dropped ¼ at $20, Alcan ⅛ at $39⅝, Aquitaine ½ at $31, Inco ⅛ at $22⅞, and Noranda Mines A 1⅛ at $40⅝. Dominion Textile climbed ⅛ at $14⅛, Norcen Energy Resources ⅛ at $19¾, Placer Development ¾ at $28¼, Seagram ⅜ at $36½, and Southam Press ⅛ at $26¼.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The London stock market rose moderately near the close of light trading today. The Financial Times index was up 2.5 to 527.9. Golds and industrials firmed but oils and banks eased. Canadian shares were lower.

—VANCOUVER—

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prices were mixed in active trading today on the Vancouver Stock Exchange. Volume to 10:56 a.m. was 2,012,542 shares.

SERVING BRITISH COLUMBIA SINCE 1894

ALCAN

Take a new look at the Northwest

Aluminum production is a complex process. We need skilled workers to handle that process in Kitimat, B.C. — and we don't expect you to bring the skills with you. While you develop them, we'll pay you an hourly rate of $8.23. The rate will go up to $9.06 on successful completion of your first year.

To qualify, you should have about two years' industrial experience behind you. You'll be introduced to a variety of new skills, including the operation of specialized mobile equipment, with opportunities for advancement.

Our benefits package is better than ever. You'll find that our collective agreement offers good shift differentials, as well as service bonuses and built-in protection against rises in the cost of living.

If you'd like to hear more about career opportunities and life in our unique coastal city, call Pamela collect at 632-4224 until this Friday only, between 9 am and 4 pm. And call soon — we'd like to hear from you.

Ulf's Return a Ranger Plus

MONTREAL (CP) — If Montreal Canadiens think they had problems in the first game of their Stanley Cup final series against New York Rangers, they haven't seen anything yet. Ulf Nilsson is back.

The rangy centre from Nynashamn, Sweden, is expected to see considerable duty in the second game of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final tonight after recovering from a broken ankle.

Nilsson and Anders Hedberg were acquired by the Rangers last summer as free agents after four seasons with Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association. The expensive Swedish package became the hot guns of the team.

When Nilsson snapped his ankle Feb. 25, he had scored 27 goals and had 39 assists. Even missing the last 21 games of the regular schedule, he had the fourth-best scoring total on the team.

Now, with his ankle near normal, he's getting into the final with the Rangers holding a 1-0 lead over the defending champions after a 4-1 victory Sunday.

"It's coming pretty good," Nilsson said of his ankle after a workout Monday. "It's a little sore, but it feels all right. It's not a hundred per cent, maybe because I wish I was in a little bit better shape."

Meanwhile, the pressure-tested Canadiens aren't too happy.

Coach Scotty Bowman was upset with his team's flat performance in the first game, when blunders by the defence led to three New York goals.

"We made some pretty bad mistakes," Bowman noted. "When you make those kind of mistakes against a team that's hot, you're going to pay for it.

"We were directly responsible for the first three goals."

Bowman said the opposition sometimes forces miscues, but the Canadiens did the damage themselves in this instance.

The Canadiens now have lost their home ice advantage, but Bowman discounted its importance.

"We kind of backed into the home-ice advantage because the Islanders lost," he said. "We weren't going to have it anyway, then we got it back, so really we're back to where we were before."

Bowman also has a goaltending problem on his hands. He pulled Ken Dryden in favor of Michel (Bunny) Larocque after the second period Sunday and now is hedging over who will start the second game.

Dryden was resigned: "I don't think there's anything dramatic about it at all.

"We have to be a whole lot sharper. The Rangers were playing a kind of hockey we have been noted for in the last while. That is, giving up, bending a little, but never being in the position of breaking."

The goaltending decision is Bowman's, but Larocque is prepared.

"I'm ready, 100 per cent, to play that second game, if they need me," Larocque said.

Montreal fans and media have been hard on Dryden since the loss, but his opposite number on the Rangers is sympathetic. John Davidson, the Rangers netminder, was somewhat disturbed.

"I don't understand how they can dump on a guy so quickly — not only the management, but the whole city," Davidson said. "That bothers me. This guy stood on his head and gave these people a lot of thrills for a long time."

Davidson said he thinks Dryden is better prepared mentally than Larocque, who will be under considerable pressure if he gets the call.

Tonight's game will be televised on channels 2 and 6 starting at 5 p.m.

Dryden Opting For Career In Russia?

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Montreal Canadiens goaltender Ken Dryden may be playing out his last season with the National Hockey League team with hopes of playing next fall in the Soviet Union.

The newspaper quotes a source close to the Dryden negotiations with the Soviet Ice Hockey Federation as saying the 31-year-old goaltender has also been exploring other possibilities and could, after completing his bar admission examinations, become involved with the Canadian Olympic hockey program.

While not confirming he might be playing in the Soviet Union next season, Dryden does say in an interview with The Globe and Mail: "You're accurate in saying I've talked with Canadian international hockey officials about my future. Actually, I have two or three options open to me and a couple of speculative ones.

"I have a flexible-enough contract that it can be either extended or terminated. You are distilling what logically might be the case anyway. But at this point in time, my options remain open."

The newspaper says a Hockey Canada official made a submission on Dryden's behalf to the Soviet Federation during the world championships.

"It's not necessarily a case of whether Dryden qualifies for such an exchange, but rather whether the SIHF, at this point in time, is interested in the concept," the unnamed Hockey Canada official is quoted as saying.

The newspaper says Dryden, who currently earns $180,000 per season, has considered retirement since last fall and his urge to leave the Canadiens arises from his belief that he has reached a crossroads in his professional life. It is six years since he quit to article and he now is faced with a choice of either taking his bar admission examinations or repeating the year or articling.

An Old Gaffer Goes Gung-Ho But Sonics Steal Some Thunder

The weekend in review — well, Sunday, that is.

And the toughest part of the day was switching dials on the one-eyed monster in the corner of the room, trying to get in on all the action.

First of all, there was the Memorial Cup final between the pride of the West, Brandon Wheat Kings, and Peterborough Petes; second, the National Hockey League final between the upstart New York Rangers and the champion Montreal Canadiens and then — what proved to be the thriller of them all — the National Basketball Association playoff between Seattle SuperSonics and Phoenix Suns.

Besides, it was Mother's Day, and this one just happened to be a Ranger fan. So all was well.

The Memorial Cup game was a good one, with the Petes full value for their win because of better balance over-all, with goalie Bart Hunter, Brandon's fill-in from Portland, the obvious standout.

And when it was over, and all the awards had come Hunter's way, there was the thought the selectors had done their job well. They hadn't allowed regionalization to stand in their way, which is so often the case in awards of this nature. For, besides Hunter, three other members of the Brandon squad were selected to the all-star squad. Truly a feather in the cap of the West for individual talent. As a team, however, Petes were superior, had been there last year, and that's what paid off.

Then came the first of the follow-ups, the surprising result as the Rangers took advantage of every mistake by the Canadiens to hand the defending cup champs a sound thrashing in positional hockey, actually made it look easy, and sent goalkeeper Ken Dryden into disrepute.

Of course, many eyes were on veteran Phil Esposito, who always gives the impression that he plays the game because he likes it, even if he sometimes bears the tag that he's overrated and overpaid.

The elderly gaffer, who seemed headed for the trade market when the season began, except that there were no takers — how do you get rid of a 37-year-old who has a guaranteed contract and a $325,000 salary with it? — was cavorting out there like one of the new breed of young lions who make up the Rangers, and enjoying every minute of it.

And, with Esposito leading the way (and getting a goal), who's to say the Broadway Blues won't keep right on surprising? After all, they weren't given any chance at all against the Islanders, were they? Another reason may be big John Davidson in goal. He gets marks. Despite the fact he looks clumsy, and probably is, he is riding a hot streak and the Rangers are riding it with him.

And, if all of that isn't enough, when coach Fred Shero was at Philadelphia in the Flyers' heyday, there was the suspicion then that he was getting his orders from higher up; and maybe that's the case again this time? At any rate the Rangers are for real and the series should be a dilly

Meanwhile, in the background were the Sonics. Five point-leaders at the half, they were all but dead late in the third period and again in the fourth quarter when the Suns twice pulled into eight-point leads.

But suddenly (there was this radio broadcast, see, which could alert the viewer because things do happen quickly in the NBA) the Sonics were back on track. A quick switch of the dial, and presto:

The Sonics, who really had no business winning, were about to do one of their miracle bits. Trailing by six with just two minutes to play, they didn't get the lead from the Suns until there were just 52 seconds left. And they held, especially in a pulsating final second that took about three minutes to get under way. The Suns had a throw-in that could have reversed everything when strategy sessions, time outs by each team, were called as the tension built.

And the TV crew did an excellent job of showing that strategy and the counter-strategy that goes into those late-second time-outs and huddles. The key was when coach Lenny Wilkins of the Sonics called his time out after the Suns had used theirs to set up the crucial play. Wilkins recognized the set, explained the defensive plan to his team, it worked and the series is back in Seattle for a seventh and deciding game.

That's a part of the game that too often goes unrecognized and unrewarded and why there are coaches in what so often seems to be a game designed for pure shooters.

None of the leaders was working with a safe advantage as pins started bouncing this morning in the final rounds of the three-day Canadian fivepin bowling championships at Town and Country Lanes.

Standings were tight after play Monday with Edna Joy of Newfoundland and Jim Fedorenko of Southern Ontario still holding the singles leads in open competition.

Joy was in one of the more comfortable positions, working with an 11-point advantage over Debbie Clisby of Manitoba in the women's event, but Fedorenko was only half a point ahead of Kip Smith of B.C. in the men's competition.

Joy picked up 33 points in four matches to boost her total to 68½. Clisby is second with 57½ but there are three other bowlers within a point and a half of the Manitoban.

Hazel Eccleston of Northern Ontario has 56½ while Sheila Mantach of Saskatchewan and Jane Bachman of B.C. have 56 points each.

Fedorenko rolled games of 302, 246, 254 and 260 to rack up 31 points in four matches to bring his over-all total to 70½. Smith totalled 30 points while Doug Morrical of Alberta boosted his total to 62½ and took over third place. Doug Kachuk of Saskatchewan faltered and fell to fourth with 57½.

The B.C. open women have the most comfortable margin in team play with an 11-point lead over Southern Ontario. Newfoundland is only two and a half points in front of Manitoba in the open men's and Saskatchewan is just three points ahead of B.C. and Newfoundland in the mixed event.

In men's classic play, which is scored on a pins-over-average basis, Saskatchewan was only two points ahead of Southern Ontario. Things were even closer in the women's classic event with Southern Ontario holding a mere one-point advantage over Manitoba.

John Thomas scored four goals to lead Nanaimo to a 10-8 win over Esquimalt in Vancouver Island Intermediate "B" Lacrosse League play Monday at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Olympic Proposal ...Plus a Warning

PEKING (AP) — China announced Tuesday it has proposed a formula which would permit its participation and that of Taiwan in the 1980 Olympics and warned that if it is not accepted, the United States and the Soviet Union could face political problems.

Sung Chung, secretary general of the All-China Sports Federation, told western reporters the formula would recognize Peking as the sole Olympic committee representing China but would allow Taiwan to continue its membership temporarily under the name of the Chinese Taiwan Olympic Committee.

He added that Taiwan's athletes and officials were welcome to take part in the Games in the Peking delegation but they could not use the name Republic of China, its flag or its anthem.

Sung said the compromise had been offered to Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, and he hoped it could be accepted in time for China to take part in the Games.

If it is not, he added, first the United States, as host of the Winter Games, then Moscow, which stages the Summer Games, would be confronted with difficulties.

"Since China and the United States have established diplomatic relations, if the United States allows Taiwan to enter the Winter Games under the name of the Republic of China and allows it to use its flag and anthem, that would be a serious political problem, no longer a matter of sport. That is what the United States will have to face if the Chinese representation issue is not settled in the International Olympic Committee."

Sung said that China emphatically rejected the April 7 resolution of the Olympic Executive Board at Montevideo which recognized the Chinese Olympic Committee located in Peking and maintained the recognition of the Chinese Olympic Committee in Taipei.

"Obviously, this [illegible] puts the Chinese Olympic Committee and the sport organization of Taiwan on a parallel footing, naming them both as Chinese Olympic Committee," he said.

Sung said an extraordinary session of the committee or a postal vote could deal with the Chinese compromise proposal. There is no regularly scheduled meeting of the full committee before the Winter Olympics, though the executive board meets in Puerto Rico in June and again in Nagoya in October.

Cable Streak Snapped

Coquitlam Adanacs ended Burnaby's four-game unbeaten streak by tripping the Cablevision crew 20-12 in Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League play Monday night in Coquitlam.

Mike Reelie scored four goals and added eight assists to lead the Coquitlan attack.

Geordie Dean also tallied four times for the winners while Paulo Burnoro led the Burnaby attack with five goals.

Coquitlam led 5-2 at the end of the first period and 15-5 after 40 minutes. The Adanaes outshot Burnaby, 63-42.

Meanwhile, Esquimalt Legion will be paying special attention to one player tonight while playing host to New Westminster Salmonbellies in a game at 8 p.m. in Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Manager Bob Reid said J.C. Kootnekoff, an all-star guard at the 1977 British Columbia high school basketball championships, also proved to be very capable at lacrosse and was extra trouble when Legion lost its opener 18-13 to Salmonbellies on the Mainland.

Reid expects the Legion to be nearly up to full strength tonight with only Jeff Whitney-Griffiths, who is suffering from a sore shoulder, out of the lineup.

Brentwood Eights Enter Nationals

Brentwood College, which won the team title at the British Columbia youth rowing championships at Burnaby Lake at the weekend, will send its lightweight and heavyweight eights crews to the Canadian high school championships.

Brentwood, which captured 14 of the 25 events at Burnaby, finished second in six others.

Indy 500 Pace Slows After Qualifying Test

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The pace at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway slowed to a walk Monday, in sharp contrast to the previous day's qualification activity.

Most of the 67 cars at the track stayed in the garage all day. The garages, however, were beehives of activity as mechanics labored over the 25 cars that have qualified for the May 27 Indianapolis 500.

In the first 1½ hours of practice only four cars moved out on the track for practice. All were cars whose drivers hope to put them in the race during the final weekend of qualifying.

Later in the day, a few of the drivers who qualified Sunday took their cars out for brief runs.

Unser, who made the starting lineup with a four-lap average speed of 192.503 miles an hour in his 10-mile qualification run, had one of the day's top speeds with a 191.571 clocking.

Meanwhile, USAC officials announced a major format change which eliminates the use of pacer lights that have been a subject of criticism in recent years.

Tom Binford, chief steward of the race, said the new pratice will be to put the pace car in front of the leading car when a yellow caution light is used. Other cars would then bunch up behind the leader without any change in position allowed.

Meadows Partners Capture Buttons

Glen Meadows partners Terry Whittaker and Jim Milbraith gained possession of the Victoria District senior golf buttons Monday by defeating the Colwood pair of Mike Bartkow and Vic Painter in a match played at the Cedar Hill course.

Cedar Hill on Top

Cedar Hill collected the most decisive victory as competition for the Joe Pryke Putter opened Monday in the Greater Victoria Inter-Club Junior Golf League.

Cedar Hill topped visiting Glen Meadows 6-3.

In other matches, Royal Colwood topped host Victoria 5½-3½ and Gorge Vale nipped visiting Uplands, 5-4.

Results:

Glen Meadows 3 at Cedar Hill 6

Dave Cormifer lost to Shane Dysart; Rick Sallis defeated Jim Taylor. Best-ball halved.

Blair Phillips tied Dave Broughton; Ross Anderson lost to Blair Piercy. Best-ball won by Glen Meadows.

Guy Hunter lost to Tony Brown; Greg Tremblay lost to Guy Ellis. Best-ball won by Cedar Hill.

Royal Colwood 5½ at Victoria 3½

Glen Barlow lost to Chris Jenkins; John Mahovolic lost to Eddie Hathway. Best-ball halved.

Bruce Barlow defeated Peter Hoskins; Neal O'Leary defeated Bruce Hammersley. Best-ball won by Royal Colwood.

Four Set to Challenge Bid

BALTIMORE (AP) — It appeared Monday that four horses will challenge Kentucky Derby winner Spectacular Bid in the 104th Preakness Stakes. But they will be four good ones.

All five likely entries were stabled in the Preakness barn and worked out at Pimlico Race Course, with Screen King, a sixth-place finisher in the Derby, the latest arrival.

Trainer Luis Barrera had taken the son of Silent Screen to New York after the Derby. The Flying Zee Stable's colt galloped two miles over a sloppy Pimlico track Monday, and Barrera said the horse enjoyed it.

Spectacular Bid, the Maryland-owned colt seeking to become the third consecutive winner of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown, galloped two miles for exercise rider Robert A. Smith. Gerry Delp, the son of trainer Buddy Delp, said Bid would have his final workout Thursday for Saturday's running of the $200,000-added race.

Also galloping was Derby runner-up General Assembly, who went two miles for exercise rider Ron McKinsey. Trainer Leroy Jolley is expected to put the Secretariat colt through a brisk workout Wednesday, the same schedule as before the Derby.

Two speed workouts were also registered by Preakness horses Monday.

Flying Paster, a disappointing fifth in the Derby, went five furlongs in 1:01 2-5 and galloped out six furlongs in 1:15.

Trainer Loren Rettele, just arrived at Pimlico, put Golden Act, the third-place Derby finisher, through six furlongs in 1:16 2-5. The colt then galloped through seven furlongs in 1:32.

Pitching Gems Bring Shutouts

Marilyn Bolton and Debbie Derkson came up with outstanding pitching performances Monday night to lead their teams to victory in Victoria Senior Women's Softball League play at Hyacinth Park.

Bolton pitched a one-hitter to spark Bemister's Welding to a 4-0 shutout over Island Dryco Breakers while Derkson hurled a three-hitter to pace Stockers North Americans to a 2-0 win over VI 90.

Bolton struck out two and walked none in a steady performance and Linda Bennett tagged a two-run double to lead Welders at the plate.

Derkson struck out four, walked none and collected the run she needed in the sixth inning when Crystal Lockyer and Gail Prince smashed successive triples off Nancy McLaughin. Sandy Ferguson had two hits for Stockers and drove in the other run.

Holmes in Form

Ron Holmes had an excellent relief performance and contributed at the plate as Farmer Construction edged Cosmopolitan 4-2 in Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League action Monday at Lambrick Park.

Holmes ignited a three-run rally with a double in the second inning and then helped Wayne Krimmer collect the pitching victory after coming on in relief in the sixth.

After Holmes doubled, George Pakos and Glen Smith tagged successive singles, Ken Ball sacrificed and Cosmos committed an error.

Farmer 030 000 1— 4 6 0
Cosmopolitans 010 000 1— 2 6 2
Wayne Krimmer 1-0, Ron Holmes (6) and Glen Smith; Rob Stenseth 0-1 and Kelvin Harrison.

TEXAS RELIEF PITCHER UNBEATEN

Kern Wins Five in Row

By The Associated Press

Reliever Jim Kern is doing the same thing with Texas Rangers this season as he did with Cleveland Indians a year ago — with one slight difference.

"I think a relief pitcher with a winning team is more important than a relief pitcher on a bad team," Kern said Monday night after picking up his fifth victory without a loss, outduelling fellow relief ace Mike Marshall, as the Rangers beat Minnesota Twins 7-5 in an American League contest.

Texas right-hander Ferguson Jenkins gave up all five Twins runs in 5 2-3 innings. Dave Rajsich got the final out in the sixth, then Kern took over. The 6-foot-5 right-hander pitched three hitless innings, striking out the side in the eighth inning and one more batter in the ninth.

Kern said his fastball "was popping nicely tonight."

"I don't think I've ever thrown any harder."

In three years with Cleveland, Kern saved 46 games, including 13 last year with a 10-10 record and an earned-run average of 3.08. So far this year, Kern's ERA is 1.60 with three saves, yielding just six earned runs in 33 2-3 innings.

In the other American League games, Cleveland Indians edged Toronto Blue Jays 1-0, Detroit Tigers defeated New York Yankees 3-1 and Kansas City Royals shaded Seattle Mariners 1-0.

In the lone National League contest, Cincinnati Reds dumped San Diego Padres 7-4.

Another former Indian, Buddy Bell, also played a key role in Texas's victory. He had four hits, including a tie-breaking single in the eighth inning off Marshall, who saw his record fall to 6-2.

The victory moved Texas to within 3½ games of the West Division-leading Twins.

Ron Jackson hit a two-run homer for Minnesota in the fourth, his fifth of the season. The Twins now have hit homers in 15 consecutive games, a club record.

Record Packer Profit

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay Packers have announced a record profit of $1,520,903 for the 1978 National Football League season.

The best previous figure for the Packers was $1,139,379 in 1970. The club had a profit of only $266,810 in 1977.

The increase stems from revenue under the new television contract which the NFL put into effect last year, worth about $5 million in the 1978 season for the Packers compared with about $2 million for 1977.

Rich Double Worth $1,394

VANCOUVER (CP) — Exhibition Park's biggest daily double payoff in two years occurred Monday night when Perky Imp and Colorado Love combined for a $1,394.70 jackpot.

Perky Imp, ridden by Andy Smith, paid $81.80 after winning the first race by four lengths, and the 2-year-old Colorado Love, making only its second start, captured the second under leading rider Brian Johnson to return $47.90.

Sandybrian, another 2-year-old making its first start, continued the string of longshots, winning the third to return $31.00.

The winners of the feature races were much more predictable. Snow Quality returned $4.50 after beating a field of $8,000 claimers in the eighth and Rustling Note paid $5.80 after an easy decision over $10,000 claimers in the ninth.

Danny Williams and Mark Walker led the riders with two victories each. Johnson's single winner stretched his lead to two over apprentice Ray Creighton. Creighton was involved in a minor automobile accident on the way to the track and did not ride.

$250,000 Payoff in Fix

BOSTON (AP) — A prosecution witness who describes himself as a "master fixer" testified Monday he carried $250,000 in betting proceeds on a fixed horse race to a Somerville, Mass., garage from Las Vegas for splitting.

Anthony Ciulla, 35, told district court he went to Las Vegas after the fixed race at Garden State Park in New Jersey in February, 1975, to collect the money.

He said Elliot Paul Price, an executive at a Las Vegas hotel, and Melvin Goldenberg, executive at a casino, each gave him $100,000.

Both men are two of eight defendants on trial on race-fixing charges in federal court.

Ciulla said a third, unidentified man gave him $50,000, and Ciulla carried the money to the Somerville garage of Howard Winter for division.

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

Let's assume you get to seven hearts on the bidding shown and West leads a trump. Obviusly the contract is easy to make if the missing spades are divided 3-2 (a 68 per cent chance), so all your thoughts are devoted to ways and means of making the grand slam if the spades are divided 4-1 (or 5-0).

One almost instantaneous thought that should enter your mind is that you have all the tricks but one. This in turn means that there may be a chance to make the contract by means of a squeeze — even if the spades are divided unfavorably. About all you need for the squeeze to operate successfully is that the defender who holds most of the missing spades also holds most of the missing clubs.

Accordingly, after playing three rounds of trumps, you cash the A-K of clubs and ruff a club. You next cash the ace of diamonds and play one more round of trumps, producing this position:

North

When you now play the six of hearts and throw a spade from dummy, East finds himself sorely pressed for a discard. Whatever he chooses to discard, you make the grand slam as a result of having planned and executed a squeeze.

Tomorrow: Imaginative defense.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological forecast for Wednesday, May 16, 1979
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expand base of operations. Make contact with those in positions of authority. Gemini, Sagittarius and Capricorn individuals figure prominently . You get good news, spirits are lifted, marvelous opportunity exists to distribute and display product.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Good Moon aspect coincides now with distance, education, information, publishing and advertising programs. Aquarius, Scorpio persons figure prominently — and so does the number 4. You could experience a "spiritual revelation."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Get beneath the surface — reject the superficial, the flimsy, pretense. Insist on facts concerning rentals, leases, financial arrangements in connection with those close to you. Member of opposite sex is drawn to you — and doesn't care who knows it!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be diplomatic, maintain balance and a moderate pace. Make intelligent concession to partner or mate. Eliminate safety hazards at home. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons figure in scenario. A favorable contract or agreement is on horizon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on obtaining facts concerning "fruits of labor." Define terms, avoid self-deception, know that you obtain nothing for nothing. Steer clear of one who claims to have a get-rich-quick scheme. Message will become crystal-clear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Power, creativity, imprinting of style, involvement are highlighted. Get off sidelines and into the fray. You are stronger than might be suspected. Set standards and goals. You are going to win!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Completion of project is indicated. Cycle No. 5 comes full circle. You can build on solid foundation, Aries figures prominently. A long-standing obligation is fulfilled. Individual who aided in past makes reappearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on friendship that becomes "meaningful" is intensified. You could meet someone destined to play a very important role in your life. Leo, Aquarius, Taurus persons play key roles. Stress independence, originality and creativity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on protecting valuables, possessions. Be familiar with basic values: count your change. Share knowledge — teach, observe, learn, open lines of communication. Cancer, Aquarius, Leo persons play key roles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Celebrate! Circumstances once more favor your efforts. You learn a secret, you gain valuable assistance from contact made at social affair. Gemini, Sagittarius natives could figure prominently. Sense of humor proves an ally.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Answers are found behind the scenes. Keep promise to one who is confined to home, hospital. You gain access to confidential data. Be discreet, keep guard in place. Another Aquarian — and a Scorpio figure in important ways.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Member of opposite sex aids in opening doors previously closed. Personal appeal is emphasized. You win "popularity contest." Accent on influence, lobbying, convincing others your convictions are "noble." You'll see!

IF MAY 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are perceptive, temperamental, lonely in a crowd, spritual and capable of aiding others during troubled times. Pisces, Virgo persons play key roles in your life. June could be your most important month of 1979, a year highlighting greater security for you and the healing of emotional wounds. If single, cycle is indicative of marriage. If already married, there could be an addition to your family. Married or single, contact made last year — or endeavour begun in 1978 — bears fruit. You've been through trauma of "starting anew."

1,334 Ballots Interest Veitch

Tourism Minister Elwood Veitch, who lost to New Democrat Jim Lorimer in Burnaby-Willingdon in the May 10th provincial election, said Monday he has asked for a check of ballots.

The minister said that under the Elections Act, he can ask for the check to take place before May 23, the day the official count of ballots is to take place.

He said he believes there could be many discrepancies in ballots and a check could decrease Lorimer's 540-vote edge. If so, the minister said he will ask for a judicial recount.

Veitch said there are still many votes that have not been counted — "people who voted in other parts of the province, the hospital vote, the Section 80 votes, those kinds of things."

"I have identified over 1,300 votes there," he said. "I don't know who'd they be for, of course, but I've identified 1,334 votes."

Abacus to Fight Receivership Order

CALGARY (CP) — Abacus Cities Ltd. says it will fight a bank receivership order.

The Calgary-based development company, which also owns the Market Square complex in Victoria, announced Monday that the Bank of Montreal had appointed a receiver over Abacus after demanding total payments of $1.57 million.

Abacus president Ken Rogers said the bank action, taken "after business hours Friday," was a "cash grab" move.

Just before appointing the receiver, the bank had sought payment of a $524,000 term loan and a further $1.05 million pursuant to letters of credit issued by the bank on behalf of Abacus, Rogers said.

He said of the letters of credit: "The bank has not advanced any funds nor been asked to advance funds nor are any funds expected to be required from the bank."

He added that the $524,000 loan was not in default.

Rogers said Abacus would legally oppose the receivership move because, he said, no notice was given and "no chance was given to pay."

He said the company is approaching "government authorities" to have the receivership order lifted.

"We are amazed by the bank move, particularly its ill-conceived timing."

Gordon Scalf, a Bank of Montreal vice-president for corporate banking, refused to comment, saying that the bank never makes comments on its customer's affairs.

The bank move took place just as Abacus was negotiating a deal for the sale of $100 million in real estate and oil and gas holdings to First City Investments of Vancouver.

Abacus recently sold its Millbourne shopping centre in Edmonton to World Land Ltd. of Calgary for $3.8 million.

A halt was ordered in the trading of Abacus shares last week after an auditor's report indicated the company lost $1.7 million last year.

New Seal Fight Off Alaska

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Greenpeace Foundation will send a 10-member expedition to the Pribiloff Islands off Alaska on June 26 to look for ways to bring about an end to the annual killing of Pacific fur seals, the Vancouver-based organization's president said Monday.

Patrick Moore said the expedition would not attempt any confrontation tactics but would emphasize "diplomacy and documentation."

Moore said some of the methods used by Greenpeace to protest the international seal hunt off northern Newfoundland during the last three years now can be seen in retrospect to have been mistakes.

At various times since 1976 Greenpeace members have sat on seals, stood between hunters from Canadian and Norwegian ships and their prey and chained themselves to vessels.

Greenpeace opposition to the hunt for harp and hooded seals on the ice off Newfoundland have had no effect on the actual operation.

Sun Appeal Lost

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Court of Appeal has dismissed an appeal by Vancouver Sun against a libel award to former Sun reporter Simma Holt who is currently seeking re-election as Liberal member of Parliament for Vancouver-Kingsway.

The court also increased her award to $5,000 from $2,000.

Justices John Aikins and Ernest Bull held that a Sun editorial was libellous in commenting on Mrs. Holt's conduct while on a government-financed trip to study California prisons. Mr. Justice Douglas Lambert said the editorial was not libellous.

Zoning Turnabout

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Valley Regional District has done an about-face in voting overwhelmingly against rezoning property in the North Oyster improvement district to industrial from residential.

Prior to a recent general meeting which attracted a packed public gathering, only area director Buddy Russell and Ladysmith director Frank Jameson opposed a rezoning application that would have allowed construction of a 10,000-foot freezer storage warehouse. The building would have been part of a proposed $3 million shellfish and fish processing plant planned by oyster grower Peter Limberis just north of Ladysmith.

Two public hearings on the application brought widespready public criticism and at the general meeting all but three directors voted against rezoning.

Transmission Ethics Code

TORONTO (UPC) — Transmission repair dealers have hammered out a proposed set of standards and code of ethics in an effort to provide guidelines for "reputable practice" in transmission repair shops, the Canadian Transmission Industry Association announced Monday.

Executive director of the association Robert Hodgson, said in a prepared news release the guidelines were the first in North America that cover both independent and franchised dealers, and will be presented to the Ontario ministry of consumer and commmercial relations for discussion this month.

The guidelines consist of a five-point list of standards and a 10-part code of ethics to "establish and maintain high standards of performance."

Association president Gordon King said "the action came in response to recent, unfounded, adverse publicity" in which surveys of a sample of shops showed customers were being overcharged for work or charged for work never done.

Ontario Polio Fears

TORONTO (CP) — Two persons with suspected cases of polio have been admitted to Victoria Hospital in London, Ont., Health Minister Dennis Timbrell said Monday.

In a statement to the legislature, Timbrell said the cases have not been confirmed by laboratory tests and test results may not be available for some time.

The health minister said the two persons, neither of whom had been immunized against the disease, are members of the Amish community in Middlesex County.

Inco Won't Talk Any More

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Inco Metals Co. said Monday it will not return to the bargaining table unless it is under the framework of the agreement tentatively reached last week with the union's bargaining committee.

"We regret the rejection of the agreement that had been reached with the bargaining committee after many months of difficult negotiations," the company said in a statement issued by Morry Brown, director of public affairs.

Members of Local 6500, United Steelworkers of America, on strike since September, voted 57 per cent Saturday against a contract that their president, Dave Patterson, had recommended they accept.

The company said in its statement that it had made significant concessions in all major areas of employee concerns and it was disappointed strike action was continuing.

"The settlement terms offered would add nearly $150 million to employment costs over the proposed three-year agreement," the statement said.

This would have given workers an increase of $3.68 an hour.

The statement said useful negotiations can be renewed only within the framework of that package.

Meanwhile Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney told reporters that a strike of the magnitude and degree of bitterness as the one at Inco would be less likely under a New Democratic Party government.

In Sudbury to support local NDP candidates for the May 22 federal election, Blakeney said a government led by the NDP would have been more aware of such issues as occupational health and safety as well as labor-management relations.

He told about 400 persons at union headquarters that production at Inco should be regulated in the same way Saskatchewan's potash industry was regulated by the province.

Any company that builds a great stockpile and then stops the paycheques to its workers is anti-social and should not be allowed to do so by government.

Inco is reported to have 80 million pounds of nickel left after eight months of non-production.

"Don't blame Inco, their allegiance is to the balance sheet," Blakeney said.

"They came here to make money and they're doing just that. They play by the rules — the rules set by the Ontario and Ottawa governments."

X-Ray Perils 'Old Hat'

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial health ministry has known for years that diagnostic x-ray equipment exposes patients to excess radiation but has responded by decreasing the size of its inspection staff, a physicist with the labor ministry said.

In an interview with The Globe and Mail, the man, who refused to allow his name to be used, said the health ministry has allowed its inspection staff to dwindle to four from about 12 in 1972.

Last week, a study by Dr. Kenneth Taylor of the University of Toronto said patients are exposed to excessive amounts of radiation while undergoing diagnostic x-rays.

Taylor said part of the problem was the ministry's policy of inspecting machines only every five years and then asking the wrong questions.

The health ministry experts in radiation exposure were transferred to a separate unit within the ministry in 1972 and later moved to the labor ministry.

Later, told of the man's comments, Health Minister Dennis Timbrell said the labor ministry experts are consulted by the health ministry.

The physicist said the contact is rare.

"They don't like to admit they can't run the show without outside assistance and it's not our business to interfere," he said.

The labor ministry, staffed by seven physicists, two engineers and six technicians, monitors workers exposed to radiation and focusses on the nuclear industry and research laboratories.

195 Nabbed For Tax Evasion

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxation officials secured 195 convictions for income tax evasion last year, resulting in fines of $3.3 million.

Year-end statistics released Monday by the revenue department show that $14.1 million in unpaid taxes was recovered as a result of the prosecutions.

There was a slight increase in the number of convictions from 187 the previous year.

Sexist Ads Studied

TORONTO (CP) — Enforcement of guidelines against sexual stereotyping in advertising may be beyond the scope of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, says Ralph Hart, the commission's director of program operations.

The regulatory agency has been asked by federal Communications Minister Jeanne Sauve to set up guidelines to eliminate sex-role stereotyping in radio and television by 1980.

Hart said Monday that the commission has no power over the advertising industry although it can hold talks with industry representatives. The CRTC can exert its influence only through broadcasting, which it regulates under federal law.

Hart said the commission has been discussing the issue with advertisers to get their views on what action could be taken.

"Maybe agreeing on a set of guidelines will be a useful step," he said. "How to enforce them and to what degree is another matter."

Advertisers will co-operate with the study, said Tom Blakeley, president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, which represents 250 companies.

But he warned: "I sincerely think that if a product has a target audience of women from age 18 to 35, and they are homemakers, it's as dumb as hell to show a man in that situation."

UPTIGHT DRESS in black crepe shows the swing this Spring away from loose, comfortable clothes to tight waists and shorter skirts. Dress designed by Karl Lagerfeld of Chloe.

Spring Clothes 'Fast Change'

TORONTO (CP) — This Spring's new clothes with their broadened shoulders, tight waists and skinny, shorter skirts, represent a fast change for most women," says Lisa Dalholt, buyer for Creeds, an exclusive fashion store in Toronto.

"It's a drastic change from all the comfortable, easy clothes we've been wearing," she said.

At the same time, Ms. Dalholt remembers that when the big clothes first arrived at Creeds, plenty of people were uneasy in ease — "those things had a sloppy feeling and a lot of women didn't look well in them."

"I think it's time for a change, but it shouldn't happen too quickly. Skirts are coming up; but it's enough to shorten them a couple of inches at a time, till the eyes adjusts."

TOO MANY PEOPLE IN CANADA ARE GETTING AWAY WITH MURDER

In our system of parliamentary democracy all elected representatives are expected to be guided by the expectations, desires and demands of their constituents.

It's interesting then that in the last parliament over one half of the elected members voted for the abolition of capital punishment when over 70% of the population favours its retention.

Obviously something is drastically wrong.

Isn't it time we made our elected officials responsive to our beliefs?

This federal election let your feelings be known by posing the following question to all candidates or their representatives who solicit your support.

"ARE YOU FOR OR AGAINST THE USE OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IN CANADA?"

It's a simple and straightforward question and a simple yes or no answer will do, not a long-winded explanation.

The Canadian Police Association is for capital punishment – whether a pre-meditated murder involves one of us or one of you. We've made our feelings known and we'll vote accordingly.

Make sure you know where the person you vote for stands on capital punishment.

It's too important to the future of this country not to.

TV Confirmed Coventry Rumor

elizabeth forbes

A week ago, when the second episode of A Man Called Intrepid was broadcast on Channel 8, interested viewers were Mrs. Fen (Doris) Thompson and her house guest, Ruby Berry, a visitor from England.

The part in which they were most interested was the bombing of Coventry and the reason given for that devastating affair.

During the Second World War they lived in Coventry and worked as Land Girls with that city's parks department.

"Many a morning we went to work still shivering and in a state of shock from the straffing we got during the night," Ruby Berry remembers.

Doris Thompson adds: "We did not hear the rumor, until the end of the war, that Coventry had to be sacrificed in order to keep the Germans from knowing British intelligence had broken their secret code.

"And certainly it remained a rumor with us until we heard it as fact on televison last week."

Land Girls were a group quite apart from the Land Army in England.

Their work was done through an agricultural scheme that saw acres of parkland in Coventry, where flowers had bloomed and lawns flourished, turned over to grow vegetables for hospitals and other institutions.

Mrs. Thompson and Miss Berry met when they were assigned to a 10-acre plot in one of those parks.

Together they learned to double dig, to trench the soil properly, to maintain seedlings in frames and to transplant those seedlings at the right time.

Crops they produced — potatoes, sprouts, carrots, other root vegetables and some corn — went to daycare nurseries for children of factory workers.

If there was a surplus it was placed on stalls in the park for the public to buy.

As Land Girls they also stooked hay, pruned roses and worked among flowers.

"A certain number of flower beds and lawns were left undisturbed to give factory people, who spent their days in blacked-out buildings and under artificial light, a place to relax outdoors," Doris Thompson explains.

Both she and Miss Berry take pride in the fact that as Land Girls they helped prepare for a new Coventry that would arise from the ruins.

While the war was going on the parks department was buying decorative trees, whenever they could be obtained, with a view of meeting the city's needs when reconstruction started.

"We planted those seedling trees row after row in one of the parks," Mrs. Thompson says.

"And they stayed there until the war was over and the time had come for them to be replanted in boulevards and various places around the city."

It was all strenuous, tiring work.

Rations were heavy in starch and did not provide many vitamins for energy.

The only concession to the hard work that Land Girls were doing was an extra ration of cheese which was supposed to provide increased energy.

Miss Berry had gained her instructor's certificate for breaking and training horses and for teaching riding shortly before the war.

This led her, while a Land Girl, to also work with a Pony Club in which young people up to the age of 16 continued to learn to ride.

"I did some fire watching with them, too," she tells you with a reminiscent nod of her head.

In 1944 she left the Coventry agricultural scheme to join the women's Voluntary Service for a welfare tour of duty to Malaya and Hong Kong.

Later again she was with the British Army of Occupation of the Rhine doing the same work in Germany.

After the war Miss Berry went to Wells in Somerset where she was a librarian for 13 years, then to Narbeth in Wales where she managed a guest house for five years.

Now she is retired and living back in Wells in an English-style cottage surrounded by an English style garden.

Doris Thompson continued with the Land Girls until the end of the war.

Then, in her own words, she returned to being a housewife, in Coventry where husband Fen was established as a mechanical engineer and later in Cheshire, where he continued in his profession.

In 1974 the Thompsons came to Canada and to Victoria to make their home.

Thompson was born in Canada and maintained his Canadian status during the many years he was in England. This spring Mrs. Thompson received her Canadian citizenship papers here.

During the years in which they went their separate ways Ruby Berry and Mrs. Thompson met occasionally in England and latterly have maintained their friendship through correspondence.

"We've got a lot of catching up to do," Miss Berry says.

Then she tells you this trip to Canada is proving to be the outstanding experience of a lifetime.

Right now one of her greatest desires is to ride horseback using a western saddle.

That wish could easily come true when she is in the Cariboo or the Okanagan Valley, places she will visit with the Thompsons before returning to England.

There are many guest ranches with horses and western saddles in those areas.

Financial Aid To Equality

TORONTO (CP) — Women must understand the financial facts of life if they are going to achieve full equality with men, says Monica Townson, a former member of the federal advisory Council on the Status of Women.

Ms. Townson, former vice-president and research director of the council, said in a speech to the Association of Women Executives that women have been conditioned to believe that they are not supposed to be interested in financial matters.

But money is power and women should not be intimidated by money matters, said Ms. Townson, an economist with the Economic Council of Canada and former economics editor of the Financial Times of Canada.

"In any industry, whether it's in the public sector or in private industry, effective management of the financial side of things is the key to the success of the venture," she said.

"Applying this lesson on a personal level means that a clear understanding and efficient planning of your own financial affairs may provide the key to individual success, not just financially, but in terms of your own self-esteem and personal autonomy."

Ms. Townson said women should consider what needs they have for life and disability insurance and must be able to differentiate among the different kinds.

It is vitally important for women to find out exactly what benefits they will get under their employers' pension plan and make plans to supplement it if necessary, she said.

She said personal financial planning should always make allowance for savings and should include careful decisions about whether it is better to rent or buy.

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Saul Levine, psychiatrist; Marion Powell, medical doctor; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

DEAR MR. LEVINE: I will soon be 15. I feel this will be my last birthday because I am going to kill myself very soon. I want to kill myself because things have gotten out of control. My parents are both alcoholics and we are always arguing and fighting. I can never bring friends in because I don't want them to see my parents drunk. My parents hate me because I am always around (in the way). They sometimes tell me to leave. I'm doing really bad in school because I don't get along with one of my teachers. We used to get along great but now she hates me and always gives me detentions.

I just don't understand. Lately everything has been going really wrong and I feel like giving up. I have tried talking to my counsellor but I couldn't tell him because I am sure he will tell my parents. I don't have any real, true friends to talk to. I can't go on anymore.

I HATE SCHOOL. I HATE LIVING. I HATE MYSELF. I have tried hard to help myself but I can't.

ANSWER: I believe that you have tried hard and that right now you hate your life. I can understand just how overwhelmed and isolated that you feel. Parents who are both alcoholics and rejecting can make your home life intolerable. In addition, you say you have no friends, you feel so alone. It has obviously affected your school work, your relationship with your teachers, and most importantly, your feelings about yourself.

You MUST seek professional help. I am not at all saying that you're crazy. I am saying that these very realistic problems are too much for you to have to cope with all alone. You'll have to take a chance and confide in someone. Is there an uncle or an aunt, a trusted adult, with whom you can let it all hang out? If you can't speak to your school counsellor, then I would suggest other trained people. If you told your counsellor that you can't let your parents know, and why, he'll get you the help you need. But if you still feel that this approach is impossible, I would contact a local family service agency, or a youth clinic in a hospital or agency.

DEAR DR. POWELL: I'm only 17 and I'm pregnant. I don't think I'm ready to have a child yet. I don't know who to call or who to write to, so I'm asking if you can help me. I don't want my parents or my brothers and sisters to find out about this.

I feel so alone and the only person who I can depend on for help is my boyfriend. He suggested that I write to you. I'm not that well off and I was wondering how much money I would need to get the abortion. Where could I go? How long would it take? Is there anyone I can really trust? I'm only one month pregnant and I would appreciate some answers as soon as possible.

ANSWER: To begin with you and your boyfriend should go to a doctor or to a clinic and discuss what is involved in having an abortion and also the alternatives to abortion that are available to you. You will have to be examined to determine how far along your pregnancy is. After you have done this, if you feel that an abortion is the right choice for you, the doctors or the counsellors at the clinic will refer you to a gynecologist who will present your case to the abortion committee at the hospital. This should only take a few days or a week to arrange.

There are trained counsellors who will see both you and your boyfriend. They can refer you to a clinic or a doctor and can answer any questions which I have not answered.

DEAR DR. COTTER: I am a 12-year-old boy. I have some problems about girls liking me. They never ask me to dances or parties and if I ask them to dance or talk to me they turn me down. I admire one girl in my class, but I don't think she likes me. I am pretty good in sports. I try to make someone notice me but all they say is he's a show-off. I don't know what to do.

ANSWER: It is natural to try to attract people through the things you do well, but you run the risk of being called a show-off. So here are two suggestions which may help.

Go on being good in sports and if you can't help showing-off a bit, turn your showing-off into humor. Be a funny show-off. Make your humor such that you are laughing at yourself at least as much as other people or things. People like people who laugh at themselves.

Also, if you are good in sports, spend some time helping someone who is not so good to be better. By being kind to people who are not as good as you, you show a good side to your nature which will be appreciated, and you can expect friendship to come easier.

DEAR DR LEVINE: I am an 18-year-old male and my problem is that I am very shy. I have had this problem for nearly five years and I feel it is time I got some sort of professional help. Would a psychologist be able to help me? Is there some way I could help myself because going to a psychologist would be very hard for me because I am so shy? This condition is supposed to be quite common but I have yet to meet anyone who has it as bad as I do.

ANSWER: You say that the "condition" of shyness is quite common. Shyness is not necessarily a symptom or a condition; the experience of feeling shy is, however, not unusual. In our society, to be shy has been looked upon as an undesirable trait, a sickness, or a fault. We have tended to extol such alleged "virtues" as assertiveness, gregariousness, the direct expression of anger and popularity, so that someone who is somewhat quiet, thoughtful and private is looked on with disdain. Worse, however, is that the person who has these particular qualities is made to feel like an outcast, inferior. It is this that is particularly painful.

Shyness by itself, then, is not a pathological state. It can be part of one, it can lead to unhappiness, but it can also be well within the range of human normality.

Heavy are our
Memory brings you back once more,
To the time when you were with us,
To the happy days of yore.

308 CARDS OF THANKS

WE WISH TO THANK THE many friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy and cards, in our recent bereavement in the loss of our loving husband and father Gordon. Special thanks to the Saanich Police Department, Dr. M. J. W. Penn, and Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh. — Doreen, David, Susan, Wendy, Raymond Ashton.

309 IN MEMORIAM

BARNES - In loving memory of my dear friend Louisa, who passed away May 15, 1978.
There is some one who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went,
There is some one who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why,
The best are always the first to die.
Sadly remembered Marg and family.

DEE— In memory of our daughter Sylvia, who passed away May 15, 1962.
Though her smiles are gone for ever
And her hands we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of Sylvia we loved so much.
Her memory is a keepsake,
With which we'll never part,
God has her in His keeping,
And we have her in our hearts.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, brother Alan and Ada.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS

The Lord is my Shepherd
I shall not want
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures
He leadeth me beside the still waters
He restoreth my soul
He leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name sake
Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death
I will fear no evil
For thou art with me, thy rod and thy staff they comfort me
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies.
Thou anointest my head with oil
My cup runneth over
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

Recycling Meeting Thursday

A task force formed to explore ways of encouraging Saanich residents to recycle their garbage will hold its first meeting Thursday at Saanich municipal hall.

The group, under the chairmanship of Ald. Howard Sturrock, has been given four months to come up with a comprehensive program for council's public works committee on recycling in the municipality.

The task force members include Saanich refuse superintendent Sydney Byrne and eight residents with experience in recycling and conservation: Nina Corley-Smith, Barbara Corry, Hal Knight, Audrey Johnson, Michael Manning, John Mayban, Elly Roelofsen, and Wendy Worthington.

Sturrock has said significant economies can be realized by both salvaging materials and reducing the volume of garbage taken to the Hartland Road dump.

The municipality was the first in the Capital Region District to support a pioneer recycling program eight years ago when it made the Borden Street depot available to a collection group for a modest rent.

Tips on Biennials

GARDENING
jack beastall

While the home gardener's hands are filled with spring work the mind has to dwell on other things such as the wallflowers and forget-me-nots which will be needed for next year.

These are plants belonging to the group known as biennials, plants which make their growth this year, their flowers early next year, and then are finished.

Success in growing biennials at home hinges on an early start and the building of study plants before this growing season ends. The poor results so often mentioned by home gardeners is generally on account of starting the seeds too late.

A coldframe is quite satisfactory at this time of year for these sowings, although a greenhouse or sun porch is just as good if available.

Seeds may be sown in boxes or directly into a prepared mixture of soil, compost, and sharp sand in a coldframe.

While the boxes or frame are being prepared there will be time to decide the kind of biennials that will be suitable to the garden, and to obtain the seed.

In addition to the ones already mentioned, there are the beautiful cup-and-saucer campanulas (Canterbury Bells) which were the feature of many gardens 20 years ago but seldom seen today. These come in pastel shades excellent for large indoor decorations.

Honesty, or Money-plant (Lunaria), is another old-time favorite, also the English Daisy under the name of Bellis perennis, which outlined the flower beds in Mother's garden.

For Foxgloves we have the newer strains with flowers around the stem instead of facing one way, and the open-flower types.

Hollyhocks, although acting as perennials in many gardens, are best treated as biennials to avoid the hollyhock rust disease.

In the home garden it is wise to sow the seeds before the end of May, then prepare a piece of open soil where the plants can grow during summer before going to the beds and borders in late September.

THINNING SEEDLINGS of both vegetables and flowers is a job for odd moments in the garden. It involves removing a large number of plantlets so that those remaining have sufficient room to develop normally.

In the home garden thinning is usually done by hand. It is as much an art as wielding a thinning hoe in a field, for the careless worker can disturb plants to a point where losses are considerable.

The home gardener can well afford to do the job properly and carefully as it is a part of a spare time hobby which, like hand weeding, brings us close enough to the plants to see what they look like and how they fare.

The art of hand thinning lies in removing unwanted plants leaving the remainder undisturbed.

To achieve this, the first and second fingers on the left hand are placed firmly on the soil one each side of the seedling that is to be kept. Gentle pressure will prevent the soil being disturbed around the roots while the adjacent seedlings are being removed.

When the job is completed the rows, or beds, are well watered to wash the soil close to the roots of the seedlings that remain and to firm the soil where the others were removed.

Collect all carrot thinnings, crush the foliage slightly, and place then on the compost heap, or in a part of the garden remote from the carrot rows.

The odor of the crushed foliage will attract the carrot rust fly to those areas. Draw the soil up to the seedlings remaining in the row so that the tops of the roots are not exposed.

Censor Bid Defeated

DUNCAN — An effort by North Cowichan Mayor George Whittaker to censor art exhibits and theatrical productions at the Cowichan Community Centre Theatre has been defeated by the community centre's management commission.

Whittaker moved that exhibits and productions likely to be offensive to any segment of the public be barred, but he was the only one of seven directors to vote in favor of the motion.

In April, Whittaker removed two paintings from the Cowichan Valley Regional Arts Council's annual spring arts fair, calling them "straight pornography."

Nine Strip And Sing In Nelson

NELSON (CP) — Nine members of the Sons of Freedom, a Doukhobor sect, stripped in court and sang in Russian as 11 of them were charged in provincial court here Monday with attempted arson.

The 11 were arrested after attempts were made on the weekend to burn the houses of two reformed Doukhobor leaders — Stefan Sorokin and Joe Podnikoff.

Mary Astaforoff, 64, Peter Astaforoff, 34, Fred Hoodicoff, 36, and Mary Marakoff were charged with attempting to set fire to Sorokin's home late Saturday night.

Tina Jmaeff, 54, Nellie Koodrin, 57, Helen Kinakin, 44, Pauline Hadikin, 69, Molly Stoochnoff, 49, Fred Hadikin, 63, and Alex Legebokoff, 65, were charged with attempting to set fire to Podnikoff's home early Sunday morning.

Preliminary hearings were set for June 19.

Society Back to the Middle Ages After N-War

By WALTER PINCUS

WASHINGTON (WP) — Although more Americans than Soviets would be immediately killed in any all-out exchange of strategic nuclear weapons, the two societies would survive in a technologically-primitive form, according to a soon-to-be-released study of nuclear war effects by the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment.

Up to 165 million Americans could die, the OTA study found, and the survivors would be left under conditions that would be "the economic equivalent of the Middle Ages."

As for the Soviet Union a large-scale U.S. attack against its "military and urban-industrial targets would remove that nation from a position of power and influence for the remainder of this century."

The OTA study was requested last September by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and designed to provide information during Senate consideration of the strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II).

Drawing on classified executive branch surveys and reports by four private research firms the OTA study found:

—In a "limited" nuclear attack against each other's strategic nuclear forces, "while the consequences might be endurable (since they would be on a scale with wars and epidemics that nations have endured), the number of deaths might be as high as 20 million. " —In the months and even years after the nuclear strikes the number of deaths could equal those at the time of the attack because of starvation as well as lack of shelter and medical services.

—One of the greatest unknowns is what the effect of thousands of nuclear explosions will have on the environment. "The possibility of significant long-term ecological damage cannot be excluded," the study finds and "some regions might be almost uninhabitable."

—Soviet warheads could result in more Americans being killed. Yet larger and more varied U.S. economy could recover more rapidly from a nuclear attack.

—Though the widely-publicized Soviet civil defence program is credited in the report with some saving of lives, the study's conclusion is that "it is not clear that a civil defense program based on providing shelters or planning evacuation would necessarily be effective."

—Conditions after the attack would get worse before they started to get better," the study finds, particularly for medical assistance, food, water and shelter after long-term radioactive fallout.

Terror Bomb Fuels Tension in Mideast

TEL AVIV (AP) — A terrorist bomb that killed two boys and wounded 32 other persons in the Israeli resort town of Tiberias threatened to lead to a new round of Israeli raids against Palestinian targets in Lebanon.

Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) claimed responsibility for the blast Monday in the vacation town on the Sea of Galilee.

The bomb was placed in a sidewalk trash can at a marketplace near a bus stop and went off shortly before 3 p.m., sending glass through the air.

The deaths brought to 15 the number of Israelis killed in terrorist attacks this year. Four were killed in a guerrilla raid in the northern Israeli coastal town of Nahariya on April 22.

That raid led to days of Israeli air attacks against guerrilla strongholds in Lebanon that left scores of casualties.

It also prompted a warning by Prime Minister Menachem Begin that Israeli reprisals would continue as long as the guerrillas kept up their terror missions.

In Beirut, meanwhile, Lebanon's two major Christian militias battled each other again today, and there were unofficial reports of 26 dead and more than 40 wounded in four days of fighting.

The rival Phalange party and the Tigers' militia of former president Camille Chamoun fought with machine-guns and explosives in three residential neighborhoods of the Lebanese capital.

If the casualty toll is accurate it would be the worst inter-Christian feud since June when the Phalangists attacked former president Suleiman Franjieh's stronghold in the town of Ehden, leaving 36 dead.

The latest battle was caused by a shootout Saturday over control of a Christian residential area of Beirut called Furn El Shubbak.

The clashes spread Sunday and Monday to the neighboring Christian neighborhoods of Ein Rummaneh and Tayyouneh, despite efforts by political and military leaders to stop the fighting.

N-Plant Safety Warning Spurned

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. government advisers warned repeatedly during the years that instruments at nuclear plants were inadequate to monitor serious accidents, but little was done about it until after the incident at Three Mile Island, government sources say.

Members of the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards expressed concern as early as 1972 that plant instruments would be unable to follow certain accidents which the industry considered had almost no chance of occurring, the sources said Monday.

The instrumentation debate goes to the heart of an industry argument that a plant's design will prevent the most-serious accidents: a core melt-down or extensive fuel damage. The argument therefore — at least before the accident at Three Mile Island — was that instruments should be aimed at monitoring less-serious accidents.

But the sources said the advisory council of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has contended for some time that instruments also should be available to follow the course of even the most-severe accident — regardless of the likelihood of it happening.

Canada Goes On ILO Carpet Over Parrot

MONTREAL (UPC) — The International Labor Organization will summon the federal government to Geneva to explain why postal union chief Jean-Claude Parrot was sentenced to jail for counselling his union's members to remain on strike after Parliament ordered them back to work, the World Labor Federation said today.

Parrot, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, was given a three-month jail sentence and 18 months' probation earlier this month following his conviction of defying the back-to-work order last fall that ended the 10-day walkout by inside postal workers. He was released on $250 bail pending an appeal.

Marcel Pepin, president of the WLF, said a grievance filed earlier this month before the United Nations affiliate had been accepted and federal officials would be summoned to defend Parrot's conviction before a freedom of association committee. No date has been set.

The WLF submitted a grievance to the ILO last Thursday charging the federal government with violating articles 87 and 98 of the international labor convention which protects freedom of association and collective bargaining rights.

Pepin, a special adviser to the Confederation of National Trade Unions, said the grievance, once submitted, has to be heard.

"The (freedom of association) committee will study the charges which could be withdrawn, amended or remain the same," he said. "It's impossible to say right now when the hearing will take place."

The CNTU triggered the ILO inquiry by complaining to the WLF the government had violated the United Nations backed convention, signed by Canada.

The postal union repeatedly has charged the government with refusing to negotiate in good faith on a new collective agreement. Talks broke down last October leading to a legal strike by the 23,000-strong CUPW.

Supply Ship On Way To Salyut

MOSCOW (UPI) — An unmanned Soviet cargo ship laden with food and fuel was en route to the Salyut 6 space laboratory today to resupply two cosmonauts who have been in space for almost three months.

The capsule was carrying an estimated ton of rocket and jet fuel for the space lab engines and a ton and a half of food, water and oxygen regeneration equipment.

Also aboard was a tulip bulb that was expected to bloom shortly and decorate the dinner table for cosmonauts Vladimir Lyakhov and Valery Ryumin, who have been in space since Feb. 25.

The tulip was part of a series of biological experiments, but Soviet ground controllers said it is one item the two cosmuts have been anxious to receive.

The capsule also was expected to restock the lab in preparation for the launch of another set of cosmonauts about May 25.

Soviet sources predicted Soyuz 34 would be sent up late this month with two cosmonauts — including a Hungarian spaceman — aboard.

As is customary on such flights, the Progress 6 capsule is taking letters, newspapers and packages from Earth to the Salyut 6 cosmonauts.

The Progress capsules have played a major role in the Soviet Union's highly successful spacelab program.

The ability to resupply the station through the use of unmanned capsules allows the cosmonauts to stay up for extended periods.

The Jaws Man Tries for Another Close Encounter

Scott's World

By VERNON SCOTT
United Pres International

HOLLYWOOD — Steven Spielberg is 31 years old. He is the only director with two movies in the all-time top 10 box-office hits — Jaws and Close Encounters of the Third Kind.

Many believe Spielberg's new film, 1941, a Second World War story based on the The Great Los Angeles Air Raid, will make the top 10, too.

Spielberg was found on Stage 16 at the Burbank Studios. Fake fog filled the cavernous stage where a ferris wheel, purchased intact from a carnvial, was the focus of attention.

A pair of actors, playing airplane spotters, repeated their lines over and over again as Spielberg improvised bits of business and dialogue to heighten the comedy. Finally satisfied, he called a halt.

Spielberg is a slender man with quick, intelligent eyes and a lopsided grin.

He's become the hottest director in films since, at age 24, he was given $2.2 million by Universal to direct Sugarland Express. It rolled up $6.5 million for the studio.

Zanuck-Brown productions entrusted him with $8 million for Jaws. It has earned $201 million worldwide. Close Encounters cost $19 million and brought in $133 million.

Universal and Columbia put up $27 million for 1941, perhaps the highest budget in history, confident Spielberg will roll another seven.

"I was making TV movies for $300,000 until I did Sugarland," Spielberg said. "That $2.2 million was a real burden. As budgets go up I feel a greater amount of responsibility. But it can't interfere with the work at hand. The pressures increase conmensurate with the size of the budget.

"I accept full financial and creative responsibility. Movies can't be made by a committee. Only the director can make a film and he'd better harden his stomach as he goes along or he'll wind up with ulcers.

"There are more pressures in a single day of 1941 than there were in a week of Jaws. I'm telling six different stories on a grandiose scale with a 165-day shooting schedule. We're over schedule and budget but all that really counts is the final result.

"I welcome the challenge. I love gambling. That's what movies are all about. I could do seven variations on the Jaws theme and play it safe. But there's no point in making a film without risk. I've grown accustomed to the state of the art which demands big budgets.

"You put brinksmanship on the line every day. I get bored easily. My interest in a film peaks about a month before its release. So I have to make sure a movie will hold my interest for about 2 ½ years or it's no good.

"Before I start a picture I've got to know I'm not going to fall out of love with it before completion. I have to love every minute.

"Some day it will all catch up with me. The day is coming, as it must to all people who gamble, when I lose. I'm awaiting the time when I have a view from the bottom looking up. It's inevitable."

Aside from the $27 million, 1941 is Spielberg's most ambitious picture. He has employed 100 stunt men for a spectacular stunt every four minutes in the two-hour, 15-minute film. There have been injuries but no fatalities.

Bachelor Spielberg, a millionaire, is comfortable with his brilliant success. He lives well but simply in Beverly Hills with actress Amy Irving, shunning Hollywood's social life.

At night and on weekends he is filming a new version of Close Encounters which will be released next year.

He is uncomfortable when people call him a genius.

"I'm a working stiff," he said. "I don't contemplate the universe or my own success. I'll continue to enjoy my work until someone takes it away from me.

"Genius applies to Freud and Einstein. The only genius involved in movies was Edison, the man who invented the camera. Filmmakers don't approach that important category. We're not causal factors, only interpreters."

Spielbeg's next picture, After School, is a story of contemporary school children with a modest $2 million budget, "After three backbreakers I'm entitled to a rest in the woods."

Thereafter he will direct a film which George Lucas will produce. Lucas, who directed Star Wars, is a close friend.

The Baby Had to Wait For Its Final Cue . . .

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The ambulance was waiting. Her labor pains were less than three minutes apart. But 24-year-old Kathy Haddon wouldn't leave the pool tournament. Her son just had to wait. And he did.

At stake was the women's championship of the city's Tavern Pool League. Kathy was the top female shooter in the league and the heart of the team from Mastry's Bar and Grill.

By 11 p.m. Saturday, the baby was four days overdue and the pains were 2½ minutes apart.

"She stayed in bed for two days to rest up so she could come to this," said her husband, Dan, shredding a styrofoam cup with his teeth. "She went into labor two days ago, but she kind of talked herself out of it."

"She won't make it through overtime," bar owner Lay Mastry said as a crowd of several hundred watched the championship shootouts.

In the seventh game, Kathy sunk the 4 and the 8 ball to give her team a 4-3 lead. But before long, Mastry's and Nell's Lounge were back in a neck-and-neck race, tied at 5-5.

Then there was a disagreement over a judge's ruling. Thirty minutes passed. Dan kept looking at his watch.

By 11:15 there were only two balls on the table — the 2 and the 8. Kathy had to sink them and Mastry's would have its second straight title.

The pains were insistent, but Kathy made short work of it. Her husband was waiting. So was the ambulance. So was the doctor, down at St. Anthony's hospital. By 11:30 she was on the way.

Later, Dan called the celebrants with the news — at 1:43 a.m., on Mother's Day, little more than two hours after her winning shot, Kathy gave birth to a boy and all was well.

Before the Judge

Judge William Ostler described a 42-year-old man as a "real danger to children" before sentencing him in Victoria provincial court Monday to four years in the penitentiary.

William Edward Elshaw, 2310 Wark, pleaded guilty Thursday to an indecent assault on a five-year-old girl and was remanded until Monday for sentencing.

Crown counsel Richard Law told the court Elshaw befriended the youngster early Wednesday night at Central Park, enticed her to his apartment with an ice cream, and performed an indecent act before returning with her to the park. The girl later took city police to Elshaw's apartment, where he was apprehended.

Law said serious consideration should be given to a sentence at Matsqui prison, the only federal institution in B.C. which offered psychiatric counselling for sexual offenders. Law reminded Ostler it was the fifth conviction for a sexual offence for Elshaw against young children.

Elshaw was convicted Jan. 31 this year of an indecent assault against a seven-year-old and was given a one-year jail sentence and placed on two years' probation; convicted Feb. 23, 1972 in Valleyfield, Que., of indecent assault against a male child and given a four-year jail term; convicted Aug. 7, 1969 of attempting to have sexual relations with a female under 14 years of age and jailed two years; and convicted May 16, 1962 in Campbell River of abducting a female and sentenced to two years.

Ostler called the episode last week an indecent and disgusting assault and said it was not possible to predict the effects on the child. He noted that reports indicated Elshaw was unable to control his sexual behavior and that he was on probation at the time of the offence.

The judge said he would recommend that Elshaw be placed in the regional psychiatric unit at Matsqui for at least part of his sentence.

Judge Harold Alder imposed a 12-month prison term on a 31-year-old Victoria man who took $1,909 destined to buy beer for a fastball tournament last summer and used it for his own purposes.

William Patrick Haywood, also known as Pat Haywood, 2424 Richmond, was also placed on 12 months probation and ordered to make restitution. Haywood pleaded guilty to a charge of theft over $200.

Court was told officials of the Glen Lake Fastball League gave Haywood $1,939 in July of last year to buy 325 cases of beer for a beer garden to be held in conjunction with a tournament Aug. 5-7.

Haywood told Colwood RCMP on Sept. 7 that he was badly pressed for collection of a small debt, used the money to pay off that debt and spent the rest at Sandown Park's standardbred horse race meet and buying lottery tickets in hopes of making enough money to cover the loss. He also said he went to a Langford hotel and borrowed 200 cases of beer for the tournament.

Crown counsel Wayne Smith said members of the league have repaid the hotel for the beer.

Smith said $450 came from league president Joseph Arden, $550 from vice-president Robert Edward Dawson, $360 from Jim Justice and $579 from Rita Wright.

Alder was told $30 of the total was spent to obtain permits in connection with the tournament.

Ostler said 23-year-old Jean Paul Gilbert of Quebec pulled off a "deceitful and crafty offence" before fining him a total of $100 and placing him on six months probation.

Gilbert, who had been in Victoria four days, pleaded guilty to fraud, mischief in misleading police and possession of marijuana.

Crown counsel Robert Mulligan said Gilbert falsely reported $200 in American Express travellers cheques stolen Saturday and then cashed the duplicate cheques at a store in the 700-block Yates Street the same day.

Gilbert had earlier reported to police that his travellers cheques had been stolen.

During a police search of his person, Mulligan said, a baggie of marijuana was found in one of Gilbert's pockets.

A $50 fine was levied on each of the first two charges and Ostler handed Gilbert a suspended sentence on the marijuana conviction.

'Casual' Lawyer Criticized

Vancouver lawyer Sidney Simons was criticized Monday by Victoria county court Judge E.J.C. Stewart for a casual approach.

But it will be his client, Shelley Lynn Harris, 24, of Victoria who will be at the receiving end of a bench warrant for her arrest for failing to appear for her trial on three narcotics charges.

Victoria lawyer Darrel Woods told Stewart he got a phone call from Simons' office late Friday and he was in court Monday to speak to the question of an adjournment.

He said a doctor has provided a letter that Harris has severe bronchitis. He didn't have the letter but promised to produce it as soon as he could.

Crown counsel Gordon Macdonald said Simons told him Thursday his client was ill and would not be able to attend court. But, he said, she was not in court Monday and there was no medical evidence.

Victoria Trio Officer Grads

Three Victoria men will be among 24 graduating as lieutenants at convocation ceremonies at Royal Roads Military College Friday and Saturday.

Officer Cadet James Huzzey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Huzzey, 1331 Glenridge, will also receive a bachelor of science degree in pysics and physical oceanography.

Receiving the same degrees will be Officer Cadet Douglas Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Mann, 1019 Arcadia, and Officer Cadet Douglas Poucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Poucher, 943 Latoria.

Commodore O.C.S. Robertson and Dr. J.T. Spinks will be awarded doctor of military science honorary degrees and Dr. R.T.D. Wallace will receive a doctor of laws honorary degree.

Probation in Rampage

A Campbell River man was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year in county court Monday for his part in wilfully damaging Jordan River prison camp April 15, 1978, during a drunken rampage by 14 inmates.

Judge E.J.C. Stewart said no useful purpose would be served in sending William Patrick Puglas, originally from Alert Bay, back to jail. He noted that the maximum sentence meted out to others involved in the rampage was 90 days.

TOWN TALK

Members of the the Racquet Club of Victoria meet tonight to discuss the organization's finances and the word is that the possibility of a closure of the operation is on the agenda.

The club is awaiting a decision from an appeal board studying the club's tax assesment.

Its 1978 tax bill on land and improvements now stands at about $39,000. This is significantly lower than the $50,000-plus the club has paid in recent years, but still far above what members think would be an acceptable level.

The Gordon Head operation has had trouble drawing patrons over the last few years because of growing competition from municipal recreational facilities.

Some of the staff of the provincial postal service who handle mail for the government and its agencies have been around for quite a few years.

And sometimes that lengthy experience comes in handy in knowing where to deliver the mail.

Take Monday, for example. The postal service delivered to the Social Credit caucus two large volumes of federal government statutes from the federal ministry of supply and services.

One was addressed to Ken Kiernans, Minister of Recreation and Conservation. The other was for Ray Williston, Minister of Lands and Forests.

Why the tomes appeared at all is a mystery to the caucus. They've never received books of federal laws before.

But if that's a puzzle, even more of a wonder is why the federal ministry of supply hasn't updated its mailing list in seven years.

The last time Kiernans and Williston were ministers of the Crown was in 1972 under Premier W.A.C. Bennett. There have been three provincial elections since then.

A plaque bearing the Sidney coat of arms has been presented to Dick Leigh, who resigned the mayoralty for health reasons last month.

He attended a council ceremony with his wife, Mina, who was given a bouquet commemorating the occasion.

They were invited to a council dinner later this month, for which Leigh said he is saving his farewell speech.

Armies might run on their stomachs, but political campaigns run on money — and the federal Conservatives are getting short.

The PC's have started sending our urgent messages asking for cash contributions of between $15 and $200 or more. The fund raising gimmick comes in the form of a telegram from Paul Curley, national treasurer for the PC Party of Canada.

"Urgently request your financial assistance prior to May 22," is how it starts. It then goes on to say that the PCs are ahead in the polls, but some key areas are up for grabs.

"With just days to go, final push will be critical to election outcome. PC Canada fund needs additional finaancial boost to meet expenses and make sure all Canadians receive Conservative Message . . . time is of the essence in the remaining days."

Unfortunately the offer doesn't come with a money-back guarantee if the PCs fail to get elected.

The contrasting lifestyles of the Socreds versus the NDP were evident in the booze being served at the campaign headquarters on election night.

Victory celebrations at NDP Charles Barber and Gordon Hanson's place were more in keeping with the working-man image — beer downed from the bottle.

Society's Safeguard: The Coroner

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Morton Shulman he isn't.

But Dr. William McArthur, ex-fighter pilot, ex-surgeon, ex-air safety investigator, is B.C.'s first-ever chief coroner.

Unlike Ontario's outspoken former chief coroner, McArthur, 44, cherishes a low-key image.

Sitting in his sixth-floor office in the Law Courts building on Burdett, McArthur gazes out across the city, hazy in the afternoon sun, and speaks of the high honor that goes with the appointment.

The role of the coroner is one of the great safeguards in our society, he says. It's what distinguishes the civilized from the uncivilized world. It's a fundamental protector of the right to life because it guarantees that no one should die unnaturally without the death being publicly investigated and reported.

"If Uganda had a coroner system that worked, things that happened there would never have happened," he says.

McArthur says the right inherent in the coroner's office has been around for more than a thousand years. Only the monarchy and sheriff's office have deeper historical roots.

Originally the coroner was charged with maintaining the rights of private property of the Crown. The word derives from archaic French, coroune, or Crown. Later he became the officer who presided over inquests of persons who died by violence or accident.

His court paralleled the judiciary with this distinction: Coroner's courts have traditionally been inquisitorial as opposed to the accusatorial basis of the judicial system. The function of the court is to establish who, how, when, where and by what means a person died.

Over the years, coroner systems in various parts of the world have developed on slightly divergent lines.

In California, for example, coroners are all pathologists. In Ontario they are all doctors, too, but only some are trained in pathology. In Australia and New Zealand they are all lawyers, justices of the peace or magistrates.

But in B.C., the Coroner's Act permits the appointment of coroners from any walk of life. Some are lawyers, some doctors, many are lay people.

And because of that McArthur feels the B.C. system has a degree of flexibility that other systems might well envy.

"I'm continually impressed by the intelligent and forthright people we have who can deal with the most complex and difficult problems," he says. "But as technology advances, there is a requirement of the coroner's service to advance along with it."

Until McArthur took over the job on April 1, the coroner's service in B.C. functioned partly under the control of municipalities and partly under the province.

McARTHUR
. . . low-key image

The new chief coroner connects the service into a unified whole, giving it executive control. His major responsibility involves supervising the three other full-time and 156 part-time coroners throughout the province.

McArthur says his first task is to establish a policy paper on how the coroner's service should develop.

Among the ideas he is considering is the creation of specialist coroners, persons specialized in particular areas such as aircraft disasters, boating tragedies or alpine deaths.

McArthur brings to his job a wealth of experience.

Born in New Zealand, the grandson of a native commissioner to the Fiji Islands, McArthur grew up in Auckland.

He came to Canada when he was 18 to attend the University of B.C.

Graduating with double honors in physiology and biochemistry, he entered the Canadian Armed Forces and became a fighter pilot.

While in Europe he developed an interest in air safety. He says in his first three years a quarter of the wings corps he had graduated with died in jet crashes. He became committed to finding out why and ended up one of the force's top investigators of air accidents.

The military sent him to medical school at the University of Western Ontario in London. He graduated in 1968, interned at Toronto General Hospital, and returned to the University of Toronto in 1973 to take a diploma in public health. Between time he was base surgeon at CFB Moose Jaw.

In 1974 he commanded the Canadian Medical Forces in the Middle East, but his expertise in aviation investigations brought him back to Canada where he was put in charge of training and supervising investigators of accidental deaths in the Armed Forces.

McArthur has achieved a world-wide reputation in aviation medicine. In 1978 he served as president of the International Society of Air Safety Investigators.

McArthur, whose wife, Dr. Lynn Beattie, is an assistant professor of geriatric medicine at the University of Toronto's medical school, says he always intended to return to B.C.

His appointment is just icing on the cake.

Logging Mishap Kills Man

A 42-year-old faller was killed Monday while working at a logging site near Jordan River.

Dead is George Peter of Otter Point Road in Sooke.

A Sooke RCMP spokesman said Peter, an employee of Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Company Ltd., died instantly in the mishap which occurred at about 10 a.m. while he was falling a tree.

Peter was the third faller killed in the Sooke-Port Renfrew logging district this year.

An inquest is expected but coroner Roy Girling has not set a date as yet.

Vocations Courses In Sept.

The Greater Victoria school board will spend $49,000 to establish the district's first vocational careers program at S.J. Willis junior secondary in September.

The money will be used primarily to purchase equipment for courses in auto body, auto marine, beauty culture, catering, child care and horticulture.

A special screening committee will select 45 S.J. Willis students and 45 students from the rest of the district to participate in the program.

The program is not intended as an alternative for students having problems in the system. Good grades are part of the criteria for selecting students.

The careers school concept was developed by a board committee earlier this year and is designed to give grade 8, 9 and 10 students more flexible course selection.

A diagnostic and remedial centre is also part of the new school.

Plant Park Gets New Hearing

A second public hearing will be held May 30 on a controversial industrial park proposal in Royal Oak. Saanich council voted 4-3 Monday night to air a compromise proposal to develop about 35 of the 90 acres at Glanford and Vanalman residentially.

Mayor Mel Couvelier and aldermen Geoff Vantreight, Sandy Noel and David Paterson favored the plan with aldermen John Mika, Mary Casilio and Irene Block opposing. Aldermen Fred Severson and Howard Sturrock were absent.

Members of the Royal Oak Community Association have bitterly opposed the industrial park .

Originally the entire area was to be incorporated into the park. However, association president Ben Pires said the group is prepared, somewhat grudgingly, to consider the compromise plan, provided Glanford Anevue is made into a cul-de-sac to discourage truck traffic.

"It's only because of the mayor's stand we have been forced into this position," he said.

Pires noted Couvelier had campaigned last election to keep the area free of industrial development.

His reversal on the issue has been a betrayal of the residents' trust, Pires said.

The condition to close Glanford came under the gun of municipal engineer Cliff Warren who said he was totally opposed to the idea.

"There are all kinds of problems associated with such a suggestion," he said.

Noel also said he could not go along with the cul-de-sac plan.

"I can't agree to it just for the sake of an industrial zone," he said.

Council was told it would cost $3.6 million to develop the site. Servicing costs alone have been estimated at $54,000 to $62,000 an acre to be paid by the developers.

Pair Held In Drug Break-In

A man and woman are to appear in provincial court following a Colwood pharmacy break-in early today resulting in several thousand dollars damage and the theft of a quantity of drugs.

Colwood RCMP arrested the pair shortly after an alarm at the St. Anthony's Clinic Pharmacy, 562 Goldstream, at 1:30 a.m.

Police used a tracking dog to flush out a man from bushes near the store and a 25-year-old woman was picked up later riding in a taxi.

A pharmacy spokesman assessed damage at $4,000 to $5,000.

Mounties Backed

The RCMP received a vote of confidence Monday when Sidney council discussed a complaint that police were harassing patrons of the Sidney Hotel bar.

Council dismissed the complaint by the Chamber of Commerce as unfounded.

Hotel manager Dennis Paquette was reluctant to discuss the situation but did say that a number of people had complained about how the RCMP were policing the location.

Paquette said he has met with RCMP officials and is hopeful the situation can be resolved.

Ask the Times

Q. Voluntary conservation societies in B.C. don't receive grants from the provincial government to carry out research projects relevant to their functions. Can you tell me if in Britain they received any assistance? R.W.J.

A. Yes. The Nature Conservancy Council, funded by the Secretary of State in Britain, may provide grants to anyone, including voluntary bodies.

Q. Can you help me find Jane Fonda's address?

A. You can reach Ms. Fonda by writing the Public Relations Department, Columbia Pictures Industries, Colgems Square, Calif. 91505.

Broadmead Pressure Charge 'Repugnant'

Broadmead Ratepayers Association spokesman Bill Neilson today labelled "repugnant" Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier's comment his group is meddling in the work of the Advisory Planning Commission.

Neilson, vice-chairman of the association, said his group isn't pressuring anybody but just wants some facts made public before discussions of a proposed Royal Oak shopping complex take place.

"When the ratepayers ask for due process, it's obstructionism. I find that repugnant," Neilson said.

Couvelier made the comment Monday in response to the ratepayers' demands that council delay one month any discussions of a rezoning application by The Bay and Broadmead Farms to build a large shopping complex on 35 acres of residentially-zoned land east of the Pat Bay Highway between Royal Oak Drive and Royal Oak Avenue.

Couvelier rejected the idea of a month delay and said the APC's handling of the application before it goes to council is traditional and meant to save time.

"Tradition be damned. It's unlawful," said Neilson, who suggested council request a legal opinion of the procedure.

The ratepayers are asking for a professional report on the retail shopping needs of the area for the next 20 years and for public disclosure of the developer's rezoning application and the staff's evaluation of the application.

Changes Urged by Hanson in Bawlf's Plans for City

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria NDP MLA Gordon Hanson said today Sam Bawlf's plans for Victoria should be significantly changed.

Hanson said the former Socred deregulation minister's projects are faulty on two points:

—Restoration of heritage buildings was occurring on a piecemeal basis, without any over-all theme.

—There was not enough public input in development of the downtown core, particularly the Inner Harbor.

Hanson, who helped defeat Bawlf in the May 10 provincial election, credited him with working to beautify the capital city but said some of the projects may have moved forward too quickly without adequate time for public discussion.

As an example, he said, there should be a public meeting called as soon as possible to discuss development of the Ocean Cement site, which is currently a parking lot on the Wharf St. waterfront.

"It should be a big public meeting, held in McPherson Playhouse, if possible," Hanson said.

"We are talking about an important site in downtown Victoria."

Hanson was commenting on a statement by newly-elected Social Credit MLA Brian Smith (Oak Bay—Gordon Head) who announced Monday he and fellow Socred Hugh Curtis would be responsible for ensuring that proects started by Bawlf would be completed.

Smith also said he would serve as a spokesman for the Victoria business community as there is no longer a Socred MLA in the riding.

Hanson said he and fellow NDP MLA Charles Barber will be available to Victoria merchants if requested.

"We are offering our services to all our constituents," he said. "If some Victoria businessmen would feel more comfortable dealing with Brian Smith — well, that's their privilege but I hope they don't think they would get an unfriendly reception from us. We want to help as much as we can."

Hanson said the NDP considers itself the main spokesman for small business, which takes in most of the ones in the Victoria area.

As for the Victoria waterfront, Hanson said, a theme should be devised for Wharf Street redevelopment. As an archeologist, he felt it would be appropriate to redevelop all Wharf Street on the colonial theme because there were many vestiges of the colonial days there.

On the other hand, redevelopment of the tank farm area across the harbor should be on the Indian theme because Indians had settled on the site something like 3,000 or 4,000 years ago.

"One project would act as a counterpoint to the other. We have neglected the Indian heritage of this area."

He said Bawlf's development plans were often carried out one building at a time with no thought for an overriding theme.

The promenade along much of the waterfront will be extended but it must mean something and must go somewhere.

It could become a stroll through history if the theme is properly explored and developed, he said.

Two projects that have a high priority for the NDP are completion of the convention centre and development of the Vic West community.

The latter, Hanson said, should be cleaned up and beautified, especially the industrial areas.

Hanson said Bawlf's plan to renovate St. Ann's Academy should be amended to turn it into a permanent meeting centre for Victoria's 31 ethnic groups. Hanson said the time has come for ethnic groups to co-operate together instead of carrying out uncoordinated programs in the region.

(Bawlf was working for the restoration of the academy but had not designated a use. He had proposed that the convention centre should be used on a year-round basis by Victoria ethnic groups as well as for meetings.)

Hanson said that while the NDP has strong feelings about Victoria development, especially on the question of more public participation, the party puts an even higher priority on job creation.

The city should make greater use of its marine access to create employment, he said.

For example, fish processing should be expanded and work should begin as soon as possible to create a commercial fishermen's wharf that would be a tourist attraction and provide more jobs for Victoria.

Victoria's unemployment level is far too high, he said, and this should be one of the first questions tackled by local members in the next session of the legislature.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market was mixed in mid-afternoon trading today. Activity was moderate.

The TSE 300 index was up 1.65 to 1,455.19 but declines outnumbered advances 181 to 159 with 231 issues unchanged.

Among industrials, Power Corp. gained ¾ to $28, Seagram Co. ¾ to $36¾, Falconbridge Nickel A ¾ to $56½, Imperial Oil A ⅝ to $27⅞ and Versatile Cornat ⅝ to $14⅜.

Asbestos Corp. lost ⅞ to $45, Cominco ⅞ to $34⅝, Westburne International ¾ to $39¾, Aquitaine of Canada ½ to $30¾ and Rolland Paper A ½ to $9¼.

Dome Mines jumped 8¼ to $132, Camflo Mines ⅝ to $14⅛ and Dickenson Mines ⅜ to $7¼. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting fell ¾ to $19¼.

But also noted strength among stocks picked out by traders as possible beneficiaries of the gasoline situation. Greyhound, for example, was up ⅜ to $15 after a gain of 1 Monday.

Gambling stocks were strong, continuing their rebound from last week's selloff.

Polaroid fell 1⅝ to $31. The company said it planned to lay off 800 workers because of excess inventories.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a modest rally today, attracting some buyers at its lowest level in more than two months.

Analysts said investors remained concerned that rising energy prices and gasoline supply problems would aggravate inflation and slow economic activity.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed in light-to-moderate trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange today. Alberta Gas Trunk A dropped ¼ at $20, Alcan ⅛ at $39⅝, Aquitaine ½ at $31, Inco ⅛ at $22⅞, and Noranda Mines A 1⅛ at $40⅝. Dominion Textile climbed ⅛ at $14⅛, Norcen Energy Resources ⅛ at $19¾, Placer Development ¾ at $28¼, Seagram ⅜ at $36½, and Southam Press ⅛ at $26¼.

London

LONDON (Reuter) — The London stock market rose moderately near the close of light trading today. The Financial Times index was up 2.5 to 527.9. Golds and industrials firmed but oils and banks eased. Canadian shares were lower.
